TWO INJURED WHEN CAR IS OVERTURNED

Mr. W. J. McDowell and Mr. J. Brawnsley Taken to Jubilee Hospital With Injuries to Head

FORMER IS IN GRAVE CONDITION

Automobile Swerving Past Another Car Overturns Three Times — Accident Occurs on Hillside Ave.

MR. W. J. McDowell, of 1424 Denman Street, lies in the Royal Jubilee Hospital in a serious condition, and Mr. John Brawnsley, of 2525 Scott Street, is also in the hospital suffering from head injuries as the result of an accident that occurred on Hillside Avenue at 1:30 o'clock last night.

Mr. McDowell was driving his car west on Hillside Avenue, near Scott Street, and swerved to one side to pass a car driven in the same direction by Mr. L. Clark, of 544 Dupplin Road. In swerving, Mr. McDowell's car went partly into a ditch and overturned, striking Mr. Clark's car, after which the car turned over twice.

Constable Arthur Bishop and Patrolman Sidney Maurice attended the accident and found Mr. McDowell suffering from concussion of the brain, while Mr. Brawnsley had severe injuries about the head. Both men were taken to the Royal Jubilee Hospital, where they were attended to by Dr. Gordon Kenning.

WIRE SERVICE IS WIDESPREAD

Details of Appropriation for Dominion Telegraphs and Telephones Not Yet Known Here

LARGE TERRITORY SERVED ON ISLAND

The appropriation in supplementary estimates at Ottawa of $24,000 for Dominion Telegraphs, Vancouver Island district, draws attention to the extensive telegraph and telephone service operated by the Dominion authorities on the Island and adjacent islands.

The companies who are in the telegraph and telephone service commercially, based on an adequate population to warrant the connection, are closely linked to the Dominion service. It is by that connection that a resident of Victoria may talk to points far beyond the limits of the B.C. Telephone Company's connections as, for instance, Sayward, or far West Coast points.

NO DATA YET

Officials here have no information yet as to what portion of the recommendations for repairs, with a small amount for extensions, will be carried out from the above-mentioned appropriation. The territory covers not only sections of the East Coast of Vancouver Island, and portions of Vancouver Island along the West Coast of the island as far north as Estevan, but connections

FIERCE RIOTS ARE RENEWED IN BELGRADE

Students Charged With Fixed Bayonets — Much Shooting Occurs — Anti-Italian Demonstration

BARRICADES STOP MOUNTED FORCES

BELGRADE, Jugoslavia, May 30.—Police, with fixed bayonets, charged students participating in anti-Italian demonstrations here this evening and forced bloody fighting. The demonstrators eventually were dispersed. There was considerable shooting. The number of casualties was not determined. At the beginning of the demonstrations this evening the students built barricades to aid in checking charges of mounted police. Firemen tried to disperse them with their hoses, but were repulsed by missiles from behind the defence works. The police then charged with fixed bayonets, shooting promiscuously, but finally clearing the area.

ADVENTUROUS TRIP

EDMONTON, May 30.—Another sub-polar expedition is about to set out. It will be a one-man affair, and the route will be from Edmonton to Athabaska, down the Athabaska River to Mackenzie River, across to the Yukon, thence by the inside passage to Prince Rupert and back by rail to Edmonton. All the water parts of this trip will be made in a fourteen-foot motorboat.

E. P. McBee, of Eugene, Ore., is the man who will dare the adventurous trip. He is now making preparations for the journey. The motorboat in which he proposes to sail the northern waters came here in tow behind a small automobile, and is being shipped to Athabaska, where it will take to the water.

Earthquake; Tornado

GUATEMALA CITY, May 30.—A tornado swept the Peten region yesterday, and a small stream near Santo Tomas is out of its banks as a result of the heavy downpour.

An earthquake has also shaken the entire region, creating panic among the residents. Gum (chicle) contractors who have concessions in Peten, fear a heavy loss.

BUILDING ON UPWARD TREND

CONSTRUCTION UNDERTAKEN IN GREATER VICTORIA NEARS $1,000,000 MARK

Average Cost of New Homes This Year $2,000 Higher Than Last Year, Statistics Show

Construction in Greater Victoria this year is rapidly approaching the $1,000,000 mark. Reports issued by the building inspectors of Victoria and the three adjoining municipalities show that construction valued at $866,845 has been undertaken during the first five months of this year.

In Victoria proper no fewer than fifty-seven new residences, with a total value of $373,780, have been erected. This is an increase of sixteen over the same period last year. For the first five months of 1927 forty-one homes were constructed at a cost of $191,940. These figures not only indicate increased building activity in the new dwelling sphere but also indicate that an even better class of house is being erected. The average cost of houses erected so far this year is $6,557, as compared with an average cost of $4,681 last year.

Building undertaken during the past five months in Greater Victoria is segregated according to municipality as follows: Victoria, $521,885; Oak Bay, $171,445; Saanich, $137,110, and Esquimalt, $36,435.

Prospects for an active building campaign this Summer is bright, for in addition to many new homes that are being planned, there is the probability of the cold storage plant being erected this Summer at a cost of approximately $300,000, a new substation for the B.C.E.R. at a cost of $225,000, additional work on the new Christ Church Cathedral and possibly the motion picture studio.

IMMIGRATION INQUIRY ENDS

HEARING OF EVIDENCE CONCLUDES—DRAFTING OF REPORT BEGINS

Deputy Minister Tells of Hostels Established for Women and Their Value

OTTAWA, May 30.—The parliamentary immigration inquiry concluded the hearing of evidence late this afternoon. A meeting of the subcommittee appointed to draft a report was held in camera later, and a further meeting of the committee as a whole will be held in private tomorrow morning with a view to assisting this subcommittee in preparation of the report.

W. J. Egan, Deputy Minister of Immigration, was on the stand all afternoon. Mr. Egan detailed the work of the women's division of the department in conjunction with hostels located in the different provinces. Hostels were located at Halifax, Saint John, N.B., Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg, Calgary, Vancouver and other points, Mr. Egan stated. The hostels were supported by Federal grants with provincial aid in some instances.

WORK OF HOSTELS

"These hostels serve as clearing houses and homes," Mr. Egan stated. "If the newcomer has difficulties with her employer, the hostels serve as a means of finding new domestic positions. If a woman immigrant happens to be in town for a day or so she may use the hostel as a clubhouse."

Local committees were in charge of the various hostels.

The publicity activities of the Department of Immigration were touched upon by Mr. Egan.

Publicity activities were carried on in countries likely to supply the proper type of settlers, Mr. Egan stated. The chief publicity work was conducted in the British Isles, some states in the United States and certain countries of Northwestern Europe.

President Speaks At Gettysburg

GETTYSBURG, Pa., May 30.—Speaking from a rostrum on the Gettysburg battlefield near the spot where Lincoln delivered his immortal address, President Coolidge today voiced a plea for the abolishment of war as the fittest tribute to the war dead of America.

At the same time, he demanded less indifference to crime in the United States and demanded what was described as a tendency of legislation to exceed powers granted to them by the constitution. These things, he said, tended to weaken the regime of law and breed turbulent populations prone to war.

SOCIAL-LABOR LEGISLATION OF B.C. ANALYZED

Mr. J. Hinchliffe, M.P.P., Challenges Premier and Mrs. M. E. Smith as Being Converts to This Principle

CHANGE OF HEART PRECEDES ELECTION

When Liberal speakers were heard declaiming upon what the party had done in the interests of social and labor legislation in this province, Mr. J. Hinchliffe, M.P.P., advised the women voters whom he addressed in the Sailors' Club at Esquimalt yesterday afternoon, to call to mind the record which he had given from the Journals of the House of Premier MacLean and Mrs. M. E. Smith, and ask themselves if the Liberal party could assert, as it so often did, to have been the main supporters of such legislation.

In recalling the history of the social-labor legislation of the provincial Legislature within the past few years, the local member called attention to the fact that following the war a conference of the powers was held, where it was agreed as to a line of action that should be adopted, especially along the line of social and labor legislation.

The Ottawa Government, when the subject came before it, passed the matter on to the various provinces. The Provincial Legislature had promptly passed it back to Ottawa.

FIVE MEASURES

In the first session of 1921, however, five labor and social bills were introduced into the Legislature of this province. These dealt with the subject of providing for an eight-hour day; with respect to night employment of women; regarding night employment of young persons; restricting the employment of young children; and the subject of maternity benefits and protection.

These measures were brought down by the Government as the programme of social-labor legislation, and carried unanimously in the House. But the legislation that the Government of the province so brought down had a joker in the various bills at the end of them, which provided that these acts

CHINESE MAKE FINAL EFFORT

BOTH SIDES IN CIVIL WAR SPURRED TO RENEWED EFFORTS TO WIN

Decisive Victory Sought to End Long Drawn-Out Civil War—Paotingfu Taken

SHANGHAI, May 30.—While the Japanese have been endeavoring to bring about a cessation of the civil war in China, and have sent their troops there at least to protect their nationals, both the Northerners and Southerners have been spurred to renewed efforts, to bring a decision in the apparently endless strife.

The Southern commanders, stung into greater temporary unity, have brought three big armies into co-operation in another attempt to capture Peking.

The Northerners are putting up a stiff resistance and heavy fighting is reported with very serious losses.

The only definite news thus far is that the Southerners have captured Paotingfu, on the Peking-Kankow Railroad, about eighty miles from Peking.

YELLOW FEVER TAKES SECOND INVESTIGATOR

LONDON, May 30.—News was received here today of the death of Dr. Wm. Alexander Young, director of the Gold Coast Medical Research Institute, of yellow fever, at Accra, Gold Coast Colony, Africa. Dr. Young was a co-worker with Dr. Hideyo Nughi, who died recently at Accra of yellow fever, resulting from his researches into the origin of that disease.

Fascist Ideal Conflicts With That of Church

ROME, May 30.—Girl students at the University of Rome have been ordered to remove the badges of the Catholic University Federation, charges The Osservatore Romano, Vatican organ, today.

Men students have been molested similarly since Saturday, the article continues, ascribing as a reason an alleged wish of the Italian authorities for dissolution of the federation.

Premier Mussolini's decree dissolving the Catholic Boy Scouts does not apply to cultural organizations, says The Osservatore, charging that nevertheless an attitude particularly vexatious to the university authorities has been assumed. It mentions also alleged stationing of police at doors of university buildings and surveillance of students.

MR. LUTTRELL RECEIVES CALL

St. Andrew's Church Congregation Selects Minister to Fill Place Occupied by Late Dr. Clay

APPOINTMENT WILL BE RATIFIED SOON

At a congregational meeting of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, held last evening at the suggestion of the elders, it was unanimously decided to extend a call to Rev. H. P. S. Luttrell, B.A., who has been occupying the pulpit of the church since the death of W. Leslie Clay, D.D., in January.

It is anticipated that Mr. Luttrell will accept the call, subject to the decision of the Presbytery during the latter part of June.

The pastor-elect will bring to St. Andrew's a varied experience in both home and foreign mission work extending over more than twenty years. A graduate of McGill University and Montreal Presbyterian Theological College, Mr. Luttrell was ordained in 1908 in Zion Church in Hull, Quebec, by the Presbytery of Ottawa, having previously seen frontier service as a student in Alberta and British Columbia, and having been for a time assistant pastor with Dr. Dewey in Stanley Presbyterian Church, Montreal.

IN FOREIGN FIELD

Drawn to the foreign field, Mr. Luttrell offered himself to the Canadian Presbyterian Board, and was sent in 1909 to Honan, in North China, where he remained, with the exception of a furlough in 1916-17, until 1926. He was Moderator of the Honan Presbytery in 1923. Not being prepared to enter into the United Church, Mr. Luttrell resigned from the mission staff and for about a year did social welfare work among the Chinese employees of an English mining syndicate of that district. This was interrupted by Nationalistic troubles, and Mr. Luttrell returned to his home in Montreal in 1926.

While doing special deputation work for the general board of the Presbyterian Church, he was designated to temporarily occupy the pulpit of St. Andrew's, made vacant by the death of Dr. Clay. The increasing interest and attendance that were evident following his coming at the beginning of March, has resulted in the call extended to him last evening.

A GREAT TRAVELER

Mr. Luttrell has had the added advantage of having traveled extensively in Europe, both during his student days and since leaving China. While in China he made a number of tours in the mountains of North Honan, and a collection of slides that he furnished the mission board have been largely used in educational work. As a preacher he had a high reputation among his fellow missionaries in China as well as in the church in Canada, and will no doubt be a great acquisition to the pulpit forces of this city.

FLIGHTS FAILS

SANTA ANA, Cal., May 30.—The Albatross, giant tri-motored monoplane that has tried persistently but vainly to break the world's endurance flight record, failed again when forced to land at 10:30 o'clock tonight after only fifteen and a half hours in the air.

HOPE FADES FOR ITALIA AND FLYERS

Citta di Milano Returns to Kings Bay After Fruitless Attempt in Search for Airship

HYDROPLANE AND DOG TEAM COMING

(Copyright, 1928, by Associated Press.)

KINGS BAY, Spitzbergen, May 30.—No word has come out of the gloom and wastes of the Far North of General Nobile or of his companions and the missing dirigible Italia. With the return here of the base ship, Citta di Milano, from a searching cruise off the northern part of Spitzbergen, anxiety for the fate of the aeronauts has increased. Hope of their rescue seems farther away.

The base ship came back at midnight. She had found no trace of the Italia. She encountered strong winds, severe cold and impassable ice floes and she returned in a snow-storm, the men depressed by their failure. The vessel will remain here until it is decided whether the base for the Norwegian rescue expedition shall be Advent Bay or Kings Bay.

PLANES COMING

The belief is held among those waiting at this place Kings Bay is better fitted for such a purpose as flights to the north and east can be made from this point to better advantage than from Advent Bay. The sealer Hobby, which is bringing Lieutenant Luetzow Holm and his hydropiane, will stop at Advent Bay and take aboard a team of ten dogs, a sledge and supplies and two men, the leader named Tandberg and a hunter named Noels.

TO SEARCH COAST

The Hobby will proceed north with the Citta di Milano, and put the dog team and dog leader and some men ashore who will try to make their way to the east.

On her recent trip the Citta di Milano on Sunday picked up a hunter named Rudi, north of Magdalena Bay. It was north of this place that the Italia was observed flying toward the North Pole on Wednesday last, but nothing had been seen of her since.

The north wind had packed the ice in the neighborhood of Vogel-

NIGERIA MAKES GOOD PROGRESS

Doing Largely Increased Business Every Year, States Dr. Lee—Railways Paying

JASPER, Alta., May 30.—"With the profits they are making, the railways of Nigeria, which are all government owned, are building new lines." Dr. H. B. Lee, of British West Africa, who is a guest at Jasper Park Lodge on his way from Australia, said this morning in an interview. "Nothing more than this need be said to show that they are successful," he said.

"We have some 1,500 miles in operation now and an average of 100 miles a year is built out of revenue.

"The Nigerian railways have their own problems, but unlike the Canadian National, opening up new country is not one of them. We do not pioneer, ours is an old settled territory and we go in only where there is sufficient business to warrant railway service.

"Nigeria," Dr. Lee declared, "is in a very healthy state at present. It is doing a largely increasing business every year in tin, palm oil and cotton. Last year its exports totaled £18,000,000, and its imports £11,000,000, a favorable trade balance of £7,000,000."

BOMBING IN MEXICO

MEXICO, May 30.—A bomb exploded at the presidential campaign headquarters of Alvaro Obregon this evening. There were no casualties and only slight damage.

The explosion took place in a room empty of people, although the building itself in other parts was crowded.

Police immediately placed heavy guards about the doors of the building and would not let anyone leave.

Fourteen Balloons and Crews Are Attacked by Lightning With Storm

Gathered at Pittsburgh in National Elimination Race, All But One Are Beaten Down in Disastrous Tempest—Pilots and Aides Brought to Ground—Balloons Struck by Lightning

One Man Killed While Aboard Craft; Another Found Dead After Leaping

PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 30.—Walter Morton, aide of the Goodyear V, was found dead near Youngwood, Pa., tonight, having made a free jump from the balloon when it was believed to have been struck by lightning. Ward T. Vanorman, pilot of the Goodyear V, suffered a fractured left leg in a parachute leap. Both men are from Akron, Ohio.

A disastrous storm tonight beat down all but one of the fourteen entries in the national elimination balloon race.

Some pilots came down voluntarily when lightning began to play about their craft, and others were compelled to seek the ground.

Lieutenant Paul Evert, of Langley Field, Va., was killed when the Army No. 3 was struck by lightning, and James Cooper, aide on the City of Cleaveland, shocked and bruised when his balloon met with a similar accident.

Speedway Guests At Indianapolis Badly Surprised

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 30.—More than two hundred guests attending a Speedway Day dinner and dance at the Broadmoor Country Club, northwest of Indianapolis, tonight were held up by a number of bandits. Club officials estimated that between $150,000 and $200,000 in money, jewelry and other valuables was taken.

The dance was held in connection with the annual 500-mile Indianapolis motor speedway here today.

Naturalization Bill Is Killed By Senate Vote

OTTAWA, Ont., May 30.—The Government bill to amend the naturalization act was killed in the Senate today. The bill would have placed authority for the granting of naturalization certificates in the hands of the Secretary of State without its being necessary for the applicant to make prior application to courts, as now required.

The bill met stormy opposition in the Commons.

It was discussed at some length by the Senate today in committee of the whole. Eventually Senator Laird moved that the committee rise. This was carried by thirty-eight to twenty. The effect was to kill the bill.

BRIBERY MONEY FUND DEBATED

EVIDENCE OF INSPECTOR JACKSON CONTRADICTED BY MR. J. J. McRAE

Police Chief's Secretary Also Makes Statement as to "Entertainment" Fund

VANCOUVER, May 30.—Evidence that a resolution of the Vancouver Police Commission of September, 1924, was not intended to authorize inauguration of an entertainment fund with offered bribe money to police officers, was given by former Police Commissioner J. J. McRae, mover of the resolution, at this afternoon's session of the inquiry into the Vancouver police affairs.

Mr. McRae said that when he moved the resolution he meant it to refer to one specific case. He had believed, he said, that the man who offered the money had been prosecuted but the action had failed and the money had been "forfeited."

Denial that any bribe money had been placed in the entertainment fund after a prosecution had failed was given by Frank Amor, secretary to the police commission and to Chief of Police H. W. Long. He had never even tried to obtain such money for the fund, he declared.

REPORT FILED

A report from Police Inspector John Jackson to Chief Long, describing an alleged attempt to bribe Jackson by Georgie Chow, was filed by G. G. McGeer, K.C., counsel for Police Commissioner Fletcher. The report contained a notation signed "C. C." in which Mr. Amor was instructed to place the bribe money referred to—$100—in the entertainment fund. Mr. McGeer drew the attention of Commissioner R. S. Lennie to the signature of Jackson and the endorsement of, he said, the Chief Constable. One was of recent date, declared Mr. McGeer.

Mr. A. Henderson, K.C., asked permission to read a telegram from Revelstoke which, he said, was signed by Maxwell and J. M. Hamilton, of Revelstoke. It was in connection with evidence given recently before the Commissioner by R. L. Demarcos, he said. Mr. A. H. MacNeill, K.C., counsel to the Commissioner, objected to the telegram being introduced unless it was matter of evidence. Mr. Henderson then asked for subpoenas for the men who had signed the telegram, but Commissioner Lennie suggested that Mr. Henderson had better discuss the matter with Mr. MacNeill after the session adjourned.

MR. COLLEY NOMINATED

KAMLOOPS, May 30.—J. R. Colley, M.P.P., was tonight chosen by Kamloops Liberals to again contest the riding at the forthcoming provincial elections. Premier J. D. MacLean was present and addressed the convention.

BIG INDUSTRY NOT PROPERLY SAFEGUARDED

Dr. Tolmie Points Out Need for Proper Salaries to Officials Guarding Health of Livestock

INVESTMENT MADE OF $800,000,000

OTTAWA, May 30.—Speaking in the Commons today on an amendment moved by Mr. Coote, Dr. Tolmie put in a strong plea for the retention of our best civil servants in Canada. He pointed out that we were losing a number at the present time on account of the meagre wages paid in comparison to what such experts received in other countries. He mentioned that a representative of the Australian Government recently passed through the country and had engaged two of the most capable men in the Department of Agriculture and the Australian was able to promise them about double the amount of salary that they were receiving here.

Dr. Tolmie said that we must realize at once that we cannot run the Civil Service of Canada on low salaries and expect to retain services of our best men and women.

He referred particularly, however, to the serious situation that exists in connection with maintaining a satisfactory supply of skilled veterinarians to protect the big livestock investment in Canada, amounting to nearly $800,000,000. The student desiring to take up veterinary science requires to spend four years in a veterinary college. On emerging from this institution he must pass an examination before he can enter the Department of Agriculture, and with the passing of the horse, which furnished a large part of the revenue of the veterinary in years past, and the meagre salaries offered by

COL. COOPER MAKES ANSWER

STATEMENT MADE BY MINISTER IN HOUSE NOT IN ACCORD WITH FACT

Former Warden Relates Demand to Hand Over Appointments to Political Man

VANCOUVER, May 30.—Declaring that the Minister of Justice must again have been misinformed by his permanent officials regarding administration in the British Columbia penitentiary, Col. H. W. Cooper, former warden of that institution, takes issue with statements made by Hon. Ernest Lapointe, in the House of Commons on Monday.

"When Mr. Lapointe states that three inmates escaped during my tenure of office, he can only refer to the attempt made by three men on November 10, 1923, a few weeks after my transfer to New Westminster," Col. Cooper stated today. "These men took advantage of faulty previous construction and secreted themselves in the prison buildings, hoping to escape in the prevailing fog, but the staff maintained a steady patrol around the yard and prison until the fog lifted and the men were promptly discovered."

POLITICAL PATRONAGE

Col. Cooper complains of political patronage, and stated that a demand was made upon him last Fall "which would have handed the filling of penitentiary appointments over to a political officer. "About the same time, I was driven to protest to the minister against a policy of interference from another quarter, which was undermining the warden's authority and rendering efficiency impossible."

McGillivary Sentenced

VANCOUVER, May 30.—Shrieking hysterically and in a state of collapse, Mrs. J. McGillivary was carried from the courtroom after Magistrate Shaw had passed sentence of three months' imprisonment on her husband, who until recently was employed as a dry squad operator.

McGillivary was found guilty of agreeing to give false testimony in a liquor case, the evidence showing that he accepted $10 in marked money from R. J. Errington, who faced a second charge of violation of the Liquor Act, the accused taking the money as part payment of $100 which he demanded.

SOCIAL-LABOR LEGISLATION OF B.C. ANALYZED

should come into effect only after all the other provinces of the Dominion had passed similar legislation.

Tracing the history of these acts, which epitomized the social-labor legislation of the province, Mr. Hinchliffe passed through the record of the various succeeding sessions of the House, detailing the moves that were made along the line of making the legislation effective.

In the second session of the year 1921 the Labor members in the Legislature took the stand that these acts passed were good ones in themselves, but that they were useless acts as long as they remained as they were on the statute books, and were not put into effect. If the acts were good, it was contended, they should be effective. If the acts were not good, then they should not have been passed.

The result was that the Labor members brought four bills forward, covering four of the subjects, and these provided for the bringing of the measures into effect on May 1, 1922. The one relating to maternity benefits was evidently left to be looked after by Mrs. Smith, but if so no move was made in favor of its being made effective.

LEGISLATURE'S ACTION

When these bills of the Labor members came before the Legislature, the eight-hour one was rejected with fifteen Liberals voting against the measure, and five for it. Mrs. Smith was not in the House when the vote was taken. The making effective of the bill prohibiting night work for women was also turned down by a vote of twenty-nine to twelve. It would have been imagined, said Mr. Hinchliffe, that this would have been a measure that Mrs. Smith would have taken a lively interest in, but she was not in the House again when the vote was taken. Dr. MacLean voted against the bill, however.

The bill for the prohibiting of the employment of children in industrial work was defeated, as brought up, by a vote of twenty-five to twelve, with Mrs. Smith not in the House, and Dr. MacLean voting against the bill. The bill brought in by the Labor members for putting into effect of the act against the employment at night of young people met with defeat by a vote of thirty to twelve. In this case Mrs. Smith again was absent from the House and Dr. MacLean voted against the measure. The whole four of the Labor bills were defeated in that session.

When the session of 1922 came along, the Labor members were ready with similar bills to those rejected the year before, and calling for the bringing into effect of the acts on May 1, 1923. To those who had any knowledge of the working of children of tender ages in the old countries, the move against the employment of them in industries appealed very strongly when this came up. The move by Labor in this session followed the same fate as the year before, and the bill was defeated twenty-three to sixteen, with Premier MacLean and Mrs. Smith both voting against the bill. The prohibition of the night employment of women met with defeat, twenty-five to twelve, with Mrs. Smith and Premier MacLean again voting against the bill. The bill to prohibit the night employment of young persons suffered defeat, twenty-four to twelve, with Mrs. Smith and Premier MacLean voting against it. The eight-hour day was also defeated twenty-two to eighteen, with Mrs. Smith and Premier MacLean voting against it.

CHANGE OF HEART

When the session of 1923 arrived, the Labor men were evidently feeling that it was no use trying to get these acts brought into effect with the Liberal party in power opposed to them, but the Government finally declared that it would deal with the matter.

An eight-hour bill, very similar to the one of 1921, was introduced with the provision that it should come into effect January 1, 1925. Labor thereupon took the stand that the notice was too long, inasmuch as the matter had been promised for two years, and employers were aware of the fact that legislation along this line was coming. It was asked that six months notice be given and this, it was contended, would be sufficient.

An amendment along this line was introduced to the Government bill by Labor, but it was turned down by a vote of twenty-nine to thirteen in the House. The records showed that Premier MacLean and Mrs. Smith were both against the amendment. The situation, therefore, with respect to these two regarding the statement that they gave the Eight-Hour Act was one in which they could say "yes," they did, but just as late as they could.

While he was not in the House prior to 1921, Mr. Hinchliffe said that the records showed that even before 1921 Premier MacLean and Mrs. Smith ran true to form in this matter of the eight-hour legislation and voted against it.

HEALTH INSURANCE

In the session of 1923 there was an important matter brought to the attention of the Government by Mr. Sam Guthrie, the Labor member. He pressed that a commission be appointed to go into the matter of state health insurance, looking to getting information that might be crystallized into legislation that session. This was an important matter that sooner or later would have to receive the attention of the House, it was evident.

But Premier Oliver proposed an amendment to the motion along this line by Mr. Guthrie. Mr. Oliver's amendment was that Ottawa be petitioned asking for state insurance and mothers' pensions.

The result was that not a single Liberal voted for the Guthrie resolution. Dr. MacLean and Mrs. Smith included.

A sequel to this matter was afforded in 1926 when Mr. J. R. Colley, Liberal member for Kamloops, brought forward on the eve of an election a resolution asking for a commission to go into this subject of state health insurance. The resolution was along the lines turned down by the Liberals in 1923, but while it carried, five years had been lost.

Had the Liberals been willing to have accepted the Guthrie resolution, there would now in all probability have been a state health insurance scheme in effect, with the result that those in need of it would have been deriving the benefits as a matter of right, and not as charity.

MOTHERS' PENSIONS

Dealing with the matter of mothers' pensions, which were provided for in the legislation of 1924, Mr. Hinchliffe said that this was brought in somewhat as an experiment. There were objections that had to be overcome in connection with the legislation, as at first effective. One of the difficulties was that widows might come from all parts, and yet derive the advantages. There had to be amendments brought in, so that this aspect would be overcome, and the province would not become a sort of home for widows. It was amended so that the husband had to have been domiciled in British Columbia for eighteen months before his death.

The Workmen's Compensation Board, which was charged with the carrying out of the act, however, took upon itself to interpret the act, and passed regulations along this line, and in instances that were not in keeping with the spirit of the act. Mr. Hinchliffe instanced a number of these interpretations, and the results that followed.

The attempts on the part of the Conservatives in the Legislature to have the board censured for this stretching of the provisions of the act were opposed by the Government, with Mrs. Smith and Dr. MacLean voting against the move.

MINES INSPECTION

Another matter referred to by the local member was that of amendments to the Coal Mines Regulation Act, which were intended to make the position of affairs in the mines more safe for miners. In 1923 an amendment was brought up in the Legislature to overcome a difficulty which was encountered whereby the miners on becoming suspicious that a mine was dangerous might have a committee named from their own number to make an inspection and report to the owners of the mine with the object of having any danger removed.

In practice it had been difficult to get committees to work because of the risk that they would be relieved of their places by the management in cases of complaint. The amendment that was brought into the House was to substitute in the matter of selection of the committee the words "of their own number," making it read "persons." This would have allowed a committee from another mine to pass on the matter, or former miners who had retired.

This could not be got through the House, however. Premier MacLean voted against the amendment.

The Minimum Wage Act was traced through the House from the time it was introduced by Major Burde in 1925. As introduced by Major Burde it was to apply to workers in all industries.

The Government asked to have it withdrawn, and promised to bring in a bill to take its place.

Major Burde complied, and the bill introduced by the Government was made to apply to workers in the lumber industry only. There was such an outcry against this course that the Government amended it so as to apply to all industries.

But on the third reading, Hon. William Sloan, a member of the Government, brought in an amendment making it apply to lumber and coal mines only. And the amendment was supported by Premier MacLean and Mrs. Smith.

WIRE SERVICE IS WIDESPREAD

down the Mainland coast by way of Seymour Narrows to the points on the Malaspina Strait and Howe Sound.

The East Coast connection goes as far north as Quatsino. In a number of centres telephonic communication is maintained in conjunction with telegraph. The presence of only one circuit in many places compels the authorities to limit communication to the outer world by conversation after 6 p.m. on Sundays and holidays, but experiences which The Colonist has had recently, as in the case of a wreck in one of the inlets of Barkley Sound, shows that the inadequate service may be very valuable in emergency cases in the prompt collection of news.

CAMPBELL RIVER SITUATION

The most interesting situation in connection with the territory covered by this service is that north of Campbell River, from Campbelltown to Menzies Bay, where the logging companies are anxious to have the B.C. Telephone Company go in and give service. Should this happen, the relations of the Dominion service will change in that locality, as it did between Courtenay and Campbell River, when the telephone company extended its lines thirty miles north. The company, however, desires public dedicated highways for its pole lines, and until the highway bridge is completed across the Campbell River, and the Island Highway extended north to Menzies Bay, such a condition will not exist.

ESTIMATES PASS

OTTAWA, May 30.—All main estimates of the Department of National Revenue went through the House today. All that remains for this department is a small vote in the supplementaries. Discussion of the revenue estimates ranged today from seized ships to ships under charter by the Government, to excise taxes on liquor and cigarettes, departmental dismissals and appointments. Pleas were heard that the best way to combat liquor smuggling was to reduce the duties. Hon. W. D. Euler, Minister of National Revenue, observed that one of the real obstacles to securing convictions for smuggling was a general sentiment not to regard smuggling as a serious offence.

The item under consideration, one of $2,000,000 to provide for the administration of the Business Profits War Tax Act, and the Income War Tax Act, carried.

Cougar Is Seen At Beacon Hill Park by Doctor

VICTORIA has again been visited by a cougar. The animal was seen in Beacon Hill Park at 6:15 o'clock last night by Dr. A. S. Barton, of 3108 Washington Avenue, who immediately reported it to the police. He said that he saw the cougar disappear into the broom near the flagstaff. Constable Robert Ireland and Patrolman Percy Shakespeare responded to the call, taking heavy calibre rifles with them. A diligent search through the bush, however, failed to uncover the cat or any trace of it.

FROM NOBILE'S BROTHER

CORDOVA, Alaska, May 30.—Three wireless messages, purportedly from the Citta di Milano, mother ship of the Italian Arctic expedition, were intercepted by the naval radio station here today.

One message was interpreted as follows:

"Presidium, Rome. We give thanks to God all are well. Your telegram is a great relief to our minds.—(signed) Nobile." (Apparently General Nobile's brother.

Another of the messages was addressed to Margurite Nobile, wife of the explorer, at Torino, Italy. It was translated as follows:

"Returned to Kings Bay. We have waited in vain for your telegrams. (Signed) Amedeo."

NO NEWS

The third message apparently was garbled and was interpreted as follows:

"Failing news, we still had hope today."

It was thought possible this was a portion of the message which was signed "Nobile."

Messages intercepted by the United States naval radio station at Cordova, signed "Nobile" and "Amadeo," evidently were from the brother of the Italian explorer, lost now a week on the Italia in the Arctic, observers believe.

Context of the message was accepted as showing they had been filed from the Citta di Milano, but not as indicating the ship had any contact with the lost dirigible. Cable dispatches from Kings Bay declared on her return there she found no trace of the Italia. The intercepted messages possibly referred to other matters of interest to Mrs. Nobile and her brother-in-law, it was thought.

CHINESE WOMAN ACCUSED OF THEFT

VANCOUVER, May 30.—For the first time in the memory of the oldest police court officials, a Chinese woman appeared before Magistrate Shaw to answer a charge of theft today.

When the name of Ah Yee was called spectators and officials alike had a surprise when a daintily-clad and pleasant-faced little daughter of the Orient stepped up in answer to the call.

She was alleged to have stolen a watch, the property of James Yeoman. A remand until June 6 was ordered.

SOAKS RIGHT IN AND LIMBERS UP STIFF JOINTS

Pharmacists Call It "Joint-Ease" Because It's for Swollen, Sore, Painful, Creaky Joints Only

It took a good many years to get together a combination of pain subduing and swelling reducing agents declared to be the only remedy that almost instantly penetrates through the skin and flesh and starts right in to make swollen, inflamed, creaky, pain-racked joints as good as new.

They call this new and wonderful preparation "Joint-Ease," because the medical man who turned the trick, worked for years to perfect some low-priced remedy that would really benfit the millions of people who have one or more joints that need helpful attention.

So "Joint-Ease" is prepared only for people who have a swollen, painful, creaky, distorted or stiff joint, whether it be in knee, elbow, shoulder, ankle, neck or finger and whether it is caused by rheumatism or something else.

Of course, it can't help but quickly put an end to such superficial ailments as lumbago, neuralgia, neuritis, aching muscles, stitch in the side, crick in the neck or sore feet because of its penetrating action, but what it is really recommended for is joint ailments of any nature whatever.

Ask for a tube of "Joint-Ease." You can use it several times in one evening for quick results, because it goes right through the skin with only a few seconds rubbing. It surely is a swift penetrator and when it gets under the skin, it starts right in to clean up all joint trouble.

GENERAL TELLS VALUE PLACED ON OUR TROOPS

General Rawlinson's Autobiography Published — Visited Canada Before Great War

HAD HIGH OPINION OF MILITIA SEEN

LONDON, May 30.—Canada narrowly missed receiving as a permanent resident one of the most distinguished and experienced soldiers of the past fifty years, General Lord Rawlinson, as revealed in his story of his life which will be published tomorrow. It is edited by Major-General Sir Frederick Maurice, director of military operations, Imperial General Staff, 1915-18. Lord Rawlinson, who died on March 27, 1925, was commander-in-chief of the army in India.

"Rawly," as Lord Rawlinson was familiarly known, while visiting Earl Grey when the latter was Governor-General of Canada, said in a letter that he was very much tempted to stay in the Dominion, not only because he thought he could make money there, but because the development of the white portions of the British Empire always has a fascination for him.

In his manuscript Lord Rawlinson wrote: "The era of small wars is over and the only war I foresee in my life is a life and death struggle with either Russia or Germany."

CANADIAN MILITIA

On a second visit to Canada Lord Rawlinson took the opportunity of examining her military force. "Lake (Lieutenant-General Sir Percy Lake) tells me they could turn out 60,000 men fairly well equipped in a fortnight. I believe if we had to fight Germany we could get reinforcements in Canada quicker than anywhere else. It would pay us to help her make up equipment on modern standards.

"I believe with two months' intensive training the Canadian militia would be fit to face European troops," Lord Rawlinson wrote. "The trouble would be with the generals, for in their appointment political influence is likely to have more weight than military efficiency. I do not think that this trouble would last long for the men are independent and outspoken and would not stand being murdered through incompetents."

CANADIANS IN FRANCE

General Rawlinson commanded the Fourth Army in France, where he first met the Canadian soldiers in March, 1915. "I am very much pleased with the Canadians," he wrote to Lord Kitchener. "They are magnificent men as you know, very quick to pick up new conditions and learn the tricks of the trade in trench warfare."

Lord Rawlinson's writings contain comparatively little about politicians, but he showed distrust of Lloyd George on more than one occasion. In 1917 he entered in his diary, "Lloyd George visited Foch the other day and invited criticism of Haig and our methods. Foch very loyally refused to do anything of the kind and he let Haig know what had passed."

the Department of Agriculture, there has been a great reduction in the number of young men taking up the profession. Since 1919 the medical students in our colleges had increased forty per cent, while in the same period those studying veterinary science had decreased twenty-five per cent, because of the lack of incentive offered in the veterinary profession.

HEALTHFUL FOOD PRODUCTS

The responsibility of the veterinarians includes protection of our herds and flocks from ordinary disease and also from contagious disease. They were responsible for the healthfulness of the milk supply, which forms practically the whole diet of infants, invalids and others; and also for the animal products which we use for food.

In addition to this, they had preventive medicine and research work in their field. He said that we must realize at the very inception, we can only maintain an efficient service by giving adequate remuneration, otherwise the young men of the country will seek fields with greater opportunities.

He referred to the adverse conditions under which the veterinarian must operate, and also pointed out that the veterinarian has established a reputation for our livestock second to none in the world. Today Canada possesses the freest herds in the world from contagious diseases. The foot and mouth disease has never gained a foothold in this country, while six outbreaks occurred in the United States since 1902, and caused the slaughter of 313,000 head of domestic animals, and 22,000 head of deer in the national forests reserve, involving an expenditure of $11,000,000. In 1912 there were twenty-three states affected, and not one single case became established in Canada.

TO PROTECT MARKETS

He also spoke of the progress made in handling glanders dourine, hog cholera and tuberculosis, and stated that, no matter what reciprocal arrangements we might make with any other country with regard to the trade in livestock, the moment we had a serious outbreak of any contagious disease in Canada this would result in the immediate shutting off of our shipments of live animals to other countries. The success of our trade depended to this extent on the efficient health of animals service that we maintain.

He quoted salaries paid in Canada to the health of animals branch, also to the employees of the health of animal industry in the United States, and by the Government veterinary service of Great Britain, showing clearly that the Canadian was working at a very much lower salary. The fact that today there was a falling off in the attendance at our colleges and also in the supply of suitable men in the health of animals branch, was proof of the seriousness of the situation. He stated that in the event of an outbreak of serious contagious disease here then we would be at a very great disadvantage without efficient service. Failure to handle the outbreak in a proper manner at its inception would result in rapid spreading. He stated that we should realize at once that it requires four years to train a veterinary inspector. With our vast investment in livestock, the necessity for immediate action was obvious. Canada, he said, cannot afford to take any chances. The responsibility rested with the Government in this matter, and he strongly urged that immediate steps be taken to remedy the situation by the payment of adequate salaries and by giving other encouragement to young men to enter our veterinarian colleges.

MEMBER WANTS TESTIMONIAL

MR. POOLEY ASKS IF MRS. M. E. SMITH BRINGS RECOMMENDATIONS

Conservative House Leader Speaks at Esquimalt to Audience of Women

"I will continue to criticize the acts of the Government of this province as is my duty to do as House Leader of the Opposition until the election day, when I will not need to continue to do so," said Mr. R. H. Pooley, M.P.P. for Esquimalt, in addressing briefly the gathering called by the ladies supporting the Conservative cause in that riding yesterday afternoon.

From the back of the hall he was asked if he thought that it was correct that there should be more constructive criticism offered.

Mr. Pooley replied that the proof that the criticism of the Opposition was constructive was evidenced by the fact that in 1919 the Conservative party placed the plank in favor of mother's pensions in the platform of the party. In 1920, the year following, the Liberal Government stole the plank, and put it into effect. The best social legislation that the Government had incorporated into its legislation had emanated from the Conservative side.

Mr. Pooley alluded to the statement made by Premier MacLean in his budget speech in the House last session to the effect that the reason the per capita taxation in this province was the largest in the Dominion was due to the effect that this province carried a lot of expenditures borne by municipalities in other provinces.

COST OF GOVERNMENT

The Premier had instanced Saskatchewan in this connection, and stated that while British Columbia paid out $7,500,000 for education, roads, police, etc., the prairie province had expended only a few thousand dollars in this way, owing to these costs being borne by municipalities.

Mr. Pooley told of having caught the Premier up on this by quoting from the budget speech of the Finance Minister of Saskatchewan, showing that $8,250,000 was spent in that province under these headings.

The proof existed now that the Premier realized that he had not properly represented the situation in his speech, for in the published address which had just appeared in booklet form the Premier had wiped out all allusion to this Saskatchewan comparison.

WANTED, A TESTIMONIAL

Mrs. Smith had said that she was coming to Esquimalt to be national housekeeper there.

"Does she bring a testimonial from Vancouver as a national housekeeper?" asked Mr. Pooley.

In pursuing this subject, he alluded to the course that was taken by Mr. Charles Woodward, who was elected at the head of the poll in Vancouver as a Liberal, while Mrs. Smith had to rely on the absentee vote alone to get in. Mr. Woodward had announced that he could not continue to support the Liberal Government in the House. He did so, he said, because of its attitude towards the city of Vancouver.

Mr. Woodward had had the courage again and again to record his opinion against the Government when he thought it was wrong. He had voted against the Government for its treatment of Vancouver.

But Mrs. Smith had not done this. She had voted for the treatment that the Government accorded Vancouver City in refusing it representation in the Government.

"That is why Mrs. Smith is changing her national housekeeping operations from Vancouver," said Mr. Pooley.

FIRST OF SERIES

The gathering held in the Sailors' Club yesterday afternoon, it was announced by Mrs. S. R. Bowden, who presided, would be followed by a number of other meetings of a similar kind in the conduct of an education campaign. Mr. J. H. Hinchliffe, who had addressed the meeting on the subject of social-labor legislation, was, together with Mr. Pooley, thanked for their co-operation. There was a large attendance, including several from the city, and a few from Saanich.

Mrs. E. F. Gould contributed solos; Miss Hayman delighted the audience with recitations; while Miss Phyllis Bennett was heard in piano solos.

Tea, sandwiches and cake were served following the programme. During the time of refreshments, Miss Bennett at the piano, and Mr. W. Anderson, violinist, contributed musical selections.

"I had taken a lot of doctor's medicine, but it did me no good, only for the time being, so reading in the B.B.B. almanac about MILBURN'S HEART NERVE PILLS I decided to try them and found them to be just what they are recommended to be, and I feel that I owe my life to them."

YALE STUDENTS RIOT

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 30.—Two hundred Yale students, hurling bricks and fruit, stormed police headquarters early today in an effort to rescue six of their comrades who had been arrested, but they were unable to break through the ranks of fifty policemen massed before the entrance.

Bricks were thrown through the windows of the office of the chief of police in one of the worst student riots known in this city.

More than 500 students participated in the two-hour riot. Police Captain James J. White called in reserves from the outlying districts to help.

CITY TIME-GUN WANTED

City officials of Cannes, France, have been asked to restore the noonday gun so that the citizens may be able to set their watches. The request mentions that the city has no public clock, and further asks that if the gun be restored that it "could be relied upon to be accurate."

SEATTLE GIRLS FOLLOW BIRDS

Six Hundred Members of Seattle Girls' Club Visited City to Hear Uplands Skylarks

Thirty, at least, of the members of the Plymouth Girls' Club excursion that came yesterday from Seattle, returned home enthusiastic about the Uplands skylarks as one of the unique charms of Victoria. During the course of the half-hour spent in the meadow to the north of the Uplands golf links, eight songsters, they said, trilled for them their sweet melody from the blue of a beautiful day of May.

The popularity of Victoria with this club, which is connected with Plymouth Congregational Church, and has a total enrolment of 1,000 members, was shown in choosing this city for the second annual outing, and coming in larger numbers than last year. Of the six hundred who took the trip on the Princess Kathleen, about half of them spent the afternoon among the beauties of Butchart's Gardens. Mrs. C. H. Oren, directress of the club, was in charge of the excursion.

DAYLIGHT SAVING

The action of the citizens of Vancouver in defeating a proposal for the putting of daylight saving into effect should put an end to this agitation. The vote was so decisive that it is obvious that section of public opinion which favors Summer time is not numerically strong. Vancouver's citizens doubtless viewed the matter from the standpoint of how upsetting it would be to business to effect the change of time, when the action would have been more or less isolated on the part of one community. It is true that had Vancouver favored the change this city had tentatively promised to follow suit. As a matter of fact there was no definite desire on the part of the people here for daylight saving, and the attitude of the Council was difficult to understand in having made its course dependent on what Vancouver would do. Now Vancouver has spoken the proposal can be forgotten. It is all for the best that this should be so for the welfare of the community.

B.C. POWER CORPORATION

The new owners of the B. C. Electric Railway Company are being subjected to unwarranted criticism regarding hypothetical actions which, according to official statements, they have no intention of taking. The mayors and reeves of the Lower Mainland appear to have been stampeded into holding a conference on the basis of this criticism, which, in effect, is that there is in contemplation the raising of power rates merely on the ground that the company is increasing its capitalization. Mr. George Kidd, the President of the British Columbia Power Corporation, who has been in Montreal consulting the principals of the company, has issued a statement which should set at rest the erroneous rumors that have been in circulation, rumors which would appear to have motives that it is not easy to discern. He says that the past policy and management of the B. C. Electric Railway is to be continued," and there is not the slightest intention on the part of the new owners of in any way interfering with the rates or affairs of the company as they have been conducted for many years." It is true that higher street car fares may be a development of the future. The severe competition to which this branch of the company's business is subjected through motor cars and motor busses makes such an increase a possible consideration.

There is, however, a denial about increased light, power and heating rates which affords a complete answer to the baseless insinuations that have been broadcasted by those who appear to have a desire to weaken confidence in the new ownership of the B. C. Electric Railway Company. Inasmuch as that ownership is Canadian the criticism, which has come from sources in Vancouver, is all the more difficult to understand. The financial deal was undertaken because of the faith of Eastern Canadians in the future of Vancouver, which Sir Herbert Holt believes is destined to become the second city of the Dominion. Mr. Kidd, the President of the new British Columbia Power Corporation, is a gentleman in whom the people of this province have full confidence, as they have also in the other officials of the B. C. Electric Company. His word is sufficient. The gathering of mayors and reeves to discuss mere rumor, in the face of authoritative contradiction of any possibility of hypothetical happenings, seems likely to have to confine its discussions to the statement about the possibility of increased street car fares.

BRITAIN'S FOREIGN INVESTMENTS

Sir Robert Kindersley, who is president of the National Savings Committee of Great Britain, estimates that British capital invested abroad now amounts to £3,990,000,000. In 1910 the capital so invested was £3,500,000,000, and yet, despite the liquidations due to the war, there has been an increase of nearly £500,000,000. Sir Robert estimates that the gross income enjoyed by Britain from investments abroad is £309,000,000, and the net income, after allowing for the American debt and other debt settlements, is at least £280,000,000. In 1927 foreign capital issues were £138,000,000, and of this amount £109,000,000 was subscribed by British people. Sir Robert admits that Britain's position of predominance has not been so easily maintained since the entry of the United States as a competitor. In pre-war days the foreign investments of the United States were negligible, whereas latterly they have been increasing at a great rate. In 1920 they were £76,000,000; in 1921, £105,000,000; 1922, £125,000,000; 1923, £53,000,000; 1924, £198,000,000; 1925, £216,000,000, and 1926, £228,000,000.

RUSSIA'S DICTATORSHIP

Writing in The Contemporary Review on men and politics in Russia M. A. Aldanov says that what is going on there is a contest for power in the simplest form, a personal struggle, "almost the kind of struggle that is found in the animal world." The course of events, indeed, would tend to prove "how these Bolshevists love one another." Mr. Aldanov recalls how not so long ago Zinoviev and Stalin fought Trotzky where later Zinoviev and Trotzky fought Stalin. It is not that their "class" feelings have changed. It is a struggle for power in which an element of animal hatred has entered, a quite understandable thing among men who have divorced religion from their lives. It is said, for instance, that Voroshilov and Yaroslavsky cannot even look at Trotzky's face without becoming enraged.

Stalin, who now holds the principal power in the Soviet regime, was called by Lenin, "a coarse man, intolerable in the capacity of General Secretary of the Party." Stalin is where he is because of his knowledge of the methods of how to dictate. He knows all about the knavery of those who surround him and those in opposition to his policies. He is cunning and adroit and has the reputation of never sticking at anything. Mr. Aldanov believes that in five years' time his reputation will be greatly undermined. "At the present time," he says, "in Russia a very low standard is required of rulers with regard to their easier judiciare. This of course will not always be so. But I fear it will be so for a very considerable time."

In Britain, where motor traffic is not nearly so dense as in the settled areas of this continent, the accidents numbered 150,000 last year; or an average of 14 killed and 407 injured every day in the year. This accident toll has as its most fruitful cause "excessive speed," just as is the case elsewhere. The demand continues to be for speed, and more speed, and Governments continue to relax the speed regulations with the consequence that accidents are on the increase, and out of proportion to the growth of traffic. New and rigid speed regulations are required everywhere if casualties of the road are to be decreased.

Mr. Winston Churchill in his recent Budget Speech coined the word 'shortfall" to indicate the difference between the amount estimated and the amount received when such difference was on the wrong side. It is regarded as a better word than "deficit," although not a particularly good word inasmuch as its meaning is somewhat obscure. Mr. Churchill, however, thinks it is all right as he used it again and again so that it will probably come into fairly common use where budgets are concerned.

According to a court ruling in Montreal it can be construed as criminal libel to call a man a "politician," that is presumably when he is not one. The terms "statesmen" and 'rubber stamps" may still, however, be applied to the elected representatives of the people.

The Good Old Days

Of the Great and Famous Ever to be Honored Knight, Sir Francis Drake, and of My Little, Little Self

The Dragon that our Seas did raise his Crest
And brought back heapes of gold unto his nest,
Unto his Foes more terrible than Thunder,
Glory of his Age, After-ages wonder.
Excelling all those that excelled before;
It's feated we shall have none such any more;
Effecting all he sole did undertake,
Valiant, just, wise, milde, honest, Godly Drake.
This man when I was little I did meete
As he was walking up Totnes long street.
He asked me whose I was. I answered him.
He asked me if his good friend were within
A faire red Orange in his hand he hed.
He gave it to me whereof I was right glad.
Takes and kist me, and prayes "God biesse my boy!"
Which I record with comfort to his day.
Could he on me have breathed with is breath
His gifts, Elis-like, after his death,
Then had I been enabled for to doe
Many brave things I had a heart unto.
I have as great desire as e'er had he
To joy, annoy, friends, foes; but 'twill not be.

A Female Colonist in Massachusetts Describes a Journey by Indian Canoe (About 1704)

The canoo was very small and shallow, so that when we were in she seem'd redy to take in water, which greatly terrify'd me and caused me to be very circumspect, sitting with my hands fast on each side, my eyes stedy, not daring so much as to lodge my tongue a hair's breadth more on one side of my mouth than tother, nor so much as think on Lotts wife for a very thought would have oversett our wherry.

PRODUCTION AND PROSPERITY

Last week Mr. A. M. Manson, Attorney-General of the Province of British Columbia, painted a glowing picture of the progress of this province in the twelve years that the Liberal Government has been in power. He gave figures and facts—and certainly they were impressive. The increase in production has been remarkable. But here is a question that people are increasingly asking themselves: "Does an increase in production inevitably mean an increase in prosperity or progress? Does it? Let's come down to some things we know. Did the increase in the production of potatoes last year mean increased prosperity to the farmer who grew them? Did the increase in the production of eggs this year mean increased prosperity to the poultrymen? On these two counts we know it did not. Let's take something else we know a little about—logging. Does increased production necessarily mean increased prosperity? Unless there is an increased demand it's the reverse. Or mining. Ore in the ground is capital—real wealth. Last year there was taken out of the ground a larger tonnage of this wealth, which cannot be replaced, and the companies who took it out got less for it. Increased production did not there mean increased prosperity. No, we must seek another basis for estimating our communal well-being than increased production, whatever it may be. —Comox Argus.

We require from buildings, as from men, two kinds of goodness: first the doing their practical duty well; then that they be graceful and pleasing in doing it; which last is itself another form of duty.—John Ruskin.

Note and Comment

By R. B. D.

We hope Mr. Herbert Kent will pardon us for anticipating some question he might be inspired to ask in his invariably interesting part of a column of The Colonist. Do you remember a time when Victoria was a very prosperous and extremely attractive little city and the city of Vancouver had not even been born? Do you remember the very bitter rivalry that sprang up between Victoria and Vancouver a very few years after Vancouver had been born? Do you remember reading about the jubilee that was held in Vancouver immediately after the census returns were issued showing that Vancouver had overtaken and passed Victoria in population?

* * *

That was Vancouver's year of Jubilee, but Victoria did not clothe herself in sackcloth and dip her head in the ash-pan. She accepted the situation with that spirit of philosophy or resignation which always has been characteristic of her people. As a matter of strict fact, the people of Victoria have been rather proud of the business development and increase of population in "the young but giant city nestling by the Lions' Gate."

* * *

But while the growth of Vancouver has not retarded the growth of Victoria, while the growth of Victoria is more rapid at the present time than it has been for many years, and the prospects of the city brighter than they have been for at least two decades, we do not believe the people of Victoria cherish any vain hopes of their city becoming a serious rival of Vancouver for the position of the chief Canadian city on the Pacific Coast. We are ambitious, but our ambition is not so vaulting as that. The natural advantages of Vancouver are so great and manifold that Victoria must be content for a time to stand by and watch Vancouver grow and speculate about the consequences of that growth.

* * *

Two of the natural advantages of Vancouver (which were at one time considered serious natural disadvantages) are the copious rainfall and the abundance of fog at certain seasons of the year. Both rain and fogs are composed of water (Vancouver's special fogs are usually composed of considerable quantities of soot as well as water), and water is a source of power and wealth. We can never hope to become serious competitors of Vancouver in the matter of rainfall. In that respect Vancouver has us "beaten to a frazzle." During the recent rainfall which was so welcome to the cultivators of the soil on this part of Vancouver Island, about three times as much water was precipitated upon Vancouver as was precipitated upon Victoria. The rain in Vancouver was accompanied by a fierce storm of thunder and lightning. Not a roll of thunder was heard nor a flash of lightning seen in Victoria. Thus even the very elements are arrayed against us. It is estimated by an authority interested in the products of the soil that the rainfall here was worth at least fifty thousand dollars to the tillers of the ground. If that is a reasonable estimate it would be equally reasonable to estimate that the rainfall around Vancouver and district was worth at least three times as much to the people over there.

* * *

Then consider the conditions in Vancouver as partially revealed by the investigation proceeding before a commissioner sitting upon the record of the police department. We can never hope to overtake, much less rival, Vancouver in a matter of that kind. At least we hope not. That is one of the excrescences of what may be called abnormal growth. The development of almost everything in the physical world, from a child to a tree, must be controlled and directed in order that the best results may be achieved. Vancouver appears to have been "running wild" for several years. Those in charge of its affairs either lost control or voluntarily relinguished control and the vicious elements have been "running" a large part of the city.

* * *

If you have keen eyes and look over in the direction of Vancouver you will notice that a dense cloud hangs over the city. This is a smoke screen that has been produced and released by those opposed to the police investigation. A charge has been made that Vancouver is menaced by a much more dangerous enemy of the people than the vicious elements which have been cheating and robbing and demoralizing many of the people. A meeting has been called of all mayors and reeves and others representative of authority in the cities and municipalities on the coast to consider what shall be done to curb the rapacity of the present owners of the tramway systems and the lighting and power systems serving the people. It is alleged that as the capital invested in the systems has been largely increased without any increase in development, the rates for transportation, light and power must also be increased. As was stated in this column at the time of the announcement of the purchase of the tramway company, it probably was the prospects of the development of the demand for water power in rapidly growing districts that induced the investors to pay such a handsome price for the property. Public opinion on such questions as light and power rates is already sufficiently strong to curb any tendency towards rapacity on the part of the new owners of the systems.

AGE OF BOBS

Sir,—How can our old friend, R. B. D., be so severe upon women and girls. We are living in an age of "Bobs," which is affecting, not only women, but men also. Men bob their pants to play golf, and also bob their hair, if they have any. We have bobbed hair, bobbed skirts, bobbed trousers and, in every magazine we read of, bobbed roads to success and wealth which we can gain if we will bob a dollar from our pocket in exchange for a book which is said to be a reliable guide. We have people who bob the age of the earth to 6,000 years, and lastly, but not least, everybody seems to have a desire to bob the viewpoint of everyone else as to what is infallible truth. Some even bob the number of those who will eventually reach Heaven to the little flock belonging to their sect, thus bobbing man's divine right to worship according to his highest ideal, which might not be along Christian lines.

THE CALGARY STAMPEDE

Sir,—In the Magazine Section of your worthy paper, under date of Sunday, May 27, I chanced to read the article by Gregory Clark, entitled "Looking for 'The Prince of Whales.'"

To say the least, this article seems in ordinary opinion very far-fetched. If, however, they should be facts, the ignorance of some of our visiting neighbors from across the border is very amusing, and I would be interested to know in what part or parts of the States the tourists in question, mentioned in this article, came from.

I have heard of, and met visitors from different countries who were very much surprised and taken back at the prosperity and advance of Canada, as to our cities, industries, and the wonders of this great country, who had expected to find our streets occupied by Indians and cow punchers, but now we find, according to the article, "The Prince of Whales" as the age advances, that our visitors from across the line are dumbfounded to find that we actually speak English in Canada, and even eat the same kind of food that they do. I am wondering if these tourists tried to book passage on the Mayflower to come to Canada. It is not surprising, however, that these same visitors to our Wild West expect to find "The Prince of Whales" (apologies to the Prince of Wales), residing in Canada, when they hear of his big ranch here, and were no doubt disappointed when they did not find "saddle horses for hire" at, say, the Montreal depot, with guides to take them out to visit His Royal Highness at his ranch, in Alberta.

It is true, no doubt, that most of the news reviews and the feature pictures taken in Canada, shown on the moving picture screens, show more or less of the wilds of Canada, and of cowboys and Indians. On the other hand, however, most of these "Wild West" pictures we see in Canada, or anywhere else, are taken in the States, but I am sure our Canadian school children, let alone the matured Canadian, would not expect to visit the States with the idea of finding cowboys and wild men, or Uncle Sam riding around with a four-gallon hat on, with top boots and spurs, chewing a piece of hay.

I do not know where Gregory Clark, the writer of the article, received his information, but may I refer further, in which he states and refers to "the Calgary Stampede" as a circus mostly made up of troupers and trick performers, from across the border. This statement is emphatically wrong. "The Calgary Stampede" is the only stampede recognized in Canada as the official meet, open to the world, to determine the king or champion cowboy of the range in the different events or contests. This is not, and never has been a circus or road show, as pointed out in Clark's article. These contestants from all over the North American Continent, or any other part of the world, are not paid to take part in the Calgary Stampede. In fact, all contestants have an entrance fee to pay in each particular event they enter, and are particularly skilled in. If these contestants are unfortunate enough (after risking limbs and life), which is the case of the most of them, to lose out by points to rival contestants, this disqualifies them from competing further during the meet, in the particular event, and they receive no compensation.

There are, however, heavy cash prizes, as well as other valuable prizes given the successful contestants, and it is this that draws the biggest delegation of cowboys ever assembled at a stampede, with many of them from different parts of the States. None of them, however, are paid a salary, directly or indirectly, or receive any money, unless they are fortunate enough to win prize money. They also have their own traveling and personal expenses to pay.

The Calgary Stampede committee spends thousands of dollars annually advertising this contest, in which it is pointed out that it is "not a circus, road show, or imitation by amateurs, but a genuine contest of skill, open to the world," and I think it only right that the public in general should not be misled through the press in any manner that is misleading to them, after one of our prosperous Canadian cities has succeeded in making their annual event a big advertising item for their city, in which they live up to it in every manner, from the newsboys up. Every businessman and citizen gets behind this gala event to make it a success, and successful it always has been, so that we can realize what can be done or undone through the medium of the press in a small way, and unintentionally, no doubt.

I have witnessed many of these events in Calgary, and met at the 1927 stampede many contestants from the States who were loud in praise as to the manner and fairness this contest is handled, and all remarked that the Calgary Stampede surpassed any contest put on anywhere. There is no favoritism shown by the judges (who are picked Canadian stockmen, experienced and qualified to act in this capacity) as to color or nationality, and quite frequently the big prize money is taken back by our neighbor cowboys from across the line.

In concluding, and referring again to "The Prince of Whales," and our visiting tourists from across the line, I would suggest that they change their slogan to 'See Canada First!"

When Motors Were New to Devon's Lanes

By D. R. F.

The village was still a bit of Drake's Old England. An old landmark in an old, old county, it wore its air of quaint reserve with the charming dignity of age. Its deeply-rutted stony lanes, its low cottages, some thatched, some tiled, its tarry fishing boats, all were of yesterday. Elsewhere, the world might rush and worry as it pleased. With the rolling on of century or season, the village would remain content, a corner of old Devon. Even the River Tern—inland a swift-flowing fussy stream—approached in a slow and respectful fashion the straggling line of whitewashed dwellings. Flowing quietly beneath a wooden bridge it widened into a small estuary. Here, looking at a worn stone pier, one wondered whether in this tiny haven might not have lain in readiness, pinnace and tall ship, when the beacons flashed warning that the might of Spain had been sighted off the Lizard. When the railways were built hither and thither across the country, no right of way was ever spurred or curved to put the village in touch. Neither director nor engineer had even given such an unimportant hamlet a thought. Never had its desire been that they should. For such communication as with the world at large, it wished to hold, it had the sea. Also a strip or road, not too well kept, connecting the railway towns of Arnmouth and Hale, passed through the village, as it wound along the coast.

In this dear old world nook, before the odd years of nineteen hundred had reached two figures, I spent a Summer. From Arnmouth, I reached Ternmouth in a bus drawn by two grey horses. Each day this bus passed through the village twice. Every morning it set out from Arnmouth to make the round trip to Hale and back, a distance of thirty miles. Not as a bus but a brave stage coach, did I prefer to look upon it, and indeed through the lineage of its driver, at least, was it connected with the famed conveyances of a hundred years before. In the passings of my coach, I took even more interest than did the landlord of the Rose Inn, though my coachman was his son, Ben. Usually after my breakfast, accompanied by the blotting paper dog from the Rose, I would stroll down to the Tern bridge and wait, there until the cumbrous vehicle came rumbling across the planks. As the horses walked up the incline from bridge to inn, I would keep pace with them and listen to the driver's gossip.

Always at the Rose would Ben get down to drink a pint of beer with his old grandfather. Between my coachman and the coaches which our great grandsires knew, this hoary-headed ancient was the connection. Of him 'twas said, that when another century was young, his hands, which now could hardly lift his mug to his blue lips, had, with the firm and vigorous grasp of youth, held the ribbons of the London-Plymouth coach.

THE INVADER

One morning as I stood beside the bridge, down the road across the stream there came a strange contrivance. With clatter, smoke and dust it whirled along, yet no horses were before it. Causing great excitement to the children playing near the river, with many a cough and splutter it rolled across the bridge. It halted just by me. Even in the metropolis, at the period a motor car was a strange and an unusual sight. This was the first, I am sure, that ever had been near the village. Also it was the first that I had ever seen at such close quarters. Was it a high-wheeled wagonette minus the shafts, with an engine tucked away somewhere beneath the seat? Surely they must have been brave folk, who ventured far from home in such a queer conveyance. They, the occupants, wished information regarding the road to Hale. As more than once I had made the round trip with Ben, I was able to supply them with the knowledge they required. And now the motorists found themselves confronted with a problem, that in those days was, I suppose, an all too common one. Their car balked at the hill. It would not even make a spirited attempt to climb. By this time there had gathered round a curious crowd. The sturdy blue-jerseyed fishermen, unafraid of the smoking, noisy demon, gladly offered their aid to get it up the ascent.

Now there wended up the hill, a strange procession. For all the world must we have looked like a strong force of ants, dragging along a great beetle in their midst. We were about half way up the incline when there came in our wake the "clup" and rumble of the bus. As he drew abreast, Ben did not deign to stop or speak. He merely gave towards us a scornful flicker of his whip. As we neared the brow, I saw outside the Rose the two—the ancient relic of the halcyon days of coaching, and the jehu of a time more modern—watching our approach. For perhaps a minute, the car remained stationary on the summit right opposite the inn. Then, with a discordant outburst from its engine, it jolted down into the valley beyond. Ben laughed after it contemptuously. But with his mug of beer untasted in his hand, the aged coachman tottered out into the street. His dimmed vision could scarcely follow across the valley the winding chalk line of the road. Yet perhaps with visional clearness, his memory could recall a day when the issue of the war between Stevenson's sooty inventions and the horse-drawn flyers of the open road was to many a matter of doubt. Hitherto horseless carriages had been confined to roads of steel. Now the last corner of old Devon was invaded. And who can say how far into a dawning era the ancient's brain could peer.

The motorists had not been ungrateful to their friends in need. The escourt of fishermen disappeared into the taproom of the Rose. But with his watery eyes blinking in the morning sunlight, the old man stood gazing into the distance, long after the dust had settled along the road to Hale.

"Why," asked the magistrate severely, "did you strike your husband with a kitchen chair?"

"Because," said the lady, " I could not lift the kitchen stove."

TO AN OLD FRIEND

A line and a thought I send
As the day slips by,
It has brought as its gift, old Friend,
An unclouded sky;
But no sunshine the whole year through
Like the sunshiny heart of you!

A thought and a dream I send
As the dusk creeps in,
However my star may ascend
Or what goals I may win,
Though they lead to the Rainbow's End,
Still your love will be best, old Friend.

For all goals that man's pride may get
Are but cold, vain things,
While the love of a friend is set
Too high for pride's wings,
And my sunshine for all life through
Is the sunshiny heart of you!

ROUNDE TABLE IS EXTENDING

INTERNATIONAL SECRETARY F. W. LYNCH TELLS OF PROGRESS OF MOVEMENT

Local Knightes Hear Review of Body's Ideals—Election of Officers Set for Monday

"The Rounde Table movement is extending. The organization has been functioning in Canada and the United States for a long period, a table has recently been formed in England, and applications have been received from Peking, China, Paris and the Philippines to create tables in those places," International Secretary Frank W. Lynch, of Ye Loyal Knightes of Ye Rounde Table, told members of the Victoria Table last night at a dinner meeting in the Empress Hotel private dining-room.

International Secretary Lynch, whose headquarters are located in Oakland, California, was given a hearty reception by the local knightes. He outlined the ideals and objectives of the organization, pointing out that it promoted not only friendship among members of the various tables, but fostered international amity between peoples of the world, and particularly between the Anglo-Saxon nations.

The speaker stated that the motto of the Rounde Table was "He Who Seeks to Serve Another Best Serves Himself," and that the knightes throughout Canada and the United States were rendering fine service in their respective communities.

Mr. Lynch is scheduled to fulfill speaking engagements today at noon and this evening in Seattle. He will leave at 6:30 o'clock this morning by aeroplane for Port Angeles, from where he will proceed by train to Seattle.

Mr. John Moore, managing director of the British Columbia Worsted Mills, whose plant is now being erected in Victoria, was a guest at the dinner, and spoke of the importance of promulgating friendship and understanding between nations.

Colonel W. N. Winsby, president of the Victoria Rounde Table, told of the success of the recent district conference held in Spokane, Wash., which he attended as delegate of the local table.

The annual election of officers of the local table will take place next Monday night at a supper gathering in the Empress Hotel private dining-room, commencing at 6 o'clock.

SUPREME COURT SUIT DISMISSED

Mr. Justice W. A. Macdonald Finds Against Plaintiffs in Trial of Newcombe vs. Saanich

The action launched by Charles and Sarah Newcombe, of Mackenzie Avenue, against the Corporation of the District of Saanich, involving a dispute over the drainage of water from the Quadra Street area, was dismissed with costs against the plaintiffs, by Mr. Justice W. A. Macdonald in Supreme Court here yesterday.

The plaintiffs sought unstated damages for the flooding of their property in Saanich municipality claiming that their lands were flooded by the negligent and unlawful construction of a ditch by Saanich, and of the municipality's failure to complete its construction and properly maintain it. Plaintiffs asked for a mandatory injunction compelling Saanich to complete the irrigation ditch, and for other redress.

In contesting the suit, the municipality denied liability for the state of flooding complained of by the plaintiffs, and claimed that it was open to the plaintiffs to have relieved their land of any surplus water by means of a private ditch.

At the trial, which occupied four days, Mr. F. J. Sinnott was counsel for Charles and Sarah Newcombe, while the defendant municipality was represented by Mr. Ernest L. Tait.

FORESTRY OF EMPIRE ADVANCING

Third Empire Forestry Conference Meets in Australia Shortly—Major Furse Tells of Work Done

BRITAIN'S TIMBER BEING REPLANTED

VANCOUVER, May 30.—Major R. D. Furse, secretary of the third Empire Forestry Conference, which is to be held in Australia shortly, sailed at noon aboard R.M.S. Niagara. He was accompanied by H. L. Robinson, technical head of the United Kingdom Forestry Commission.

As a direct result of the last Empire Forestry Conference, which was held in Canada about five years ago, the Imperial Forestry Institute at Oxford had been established, stated Major Furse. This school trained expert foresters and sought to solve the forestry problems of the Empire.

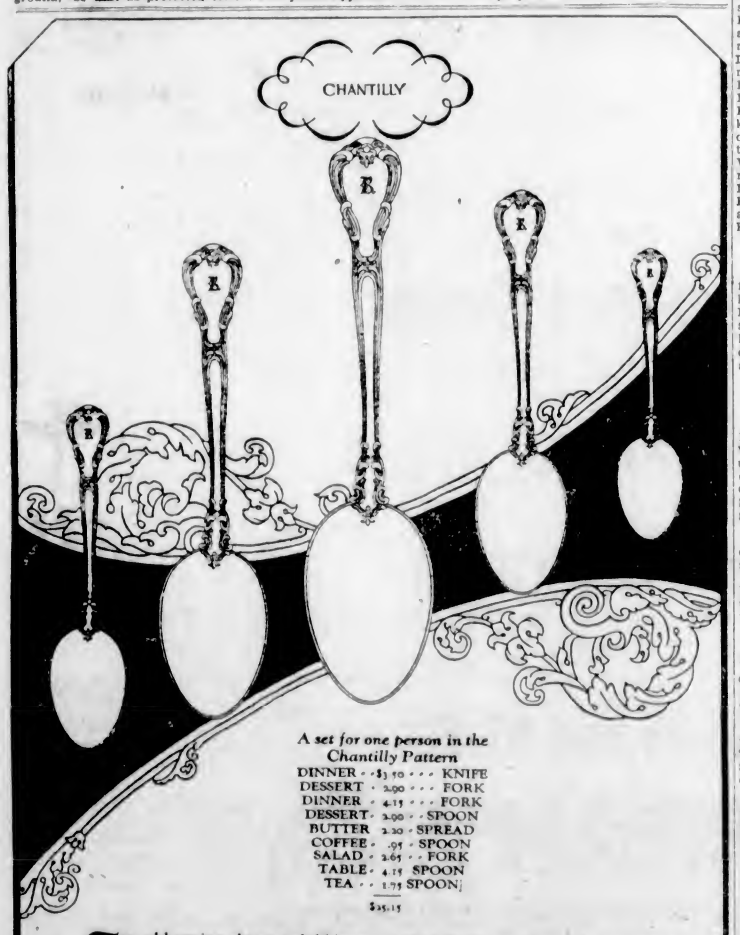

Major Furse contrasted British forestry problems with those faced by the lumbermen of British Columbia, pointing out that in Great Britain an elaborate reforestration scheme has been maintained for the past ten years at a cost of approximately $3,500,000.

Under the stress of war one-third of merchantable timber of Great Britain was cut, said Major Furse, and as soon as time allowed the British Government immediately set out to replace this. The reforestration scheme included the establishment of permanent forest workers on small farm plots adjacent to timber stands. Governmental authorities were planting 23,000 acres and private interests 12,000 acres each year.

Before taking up the work of the forestry conference, Major Furse was private secretary to Hon. L. C. M. S. Amery, Secretary of State for the Colonies. Previous to that he had been private secretary to the Duke of Devonshire and also to J. H. Thomas.

Listed in the panel are the necessary pieces comprising a set for one person. Shown above, in the Chantilly pattern, are the spoons mentioned, with a choice of two sizes in the Tea Spoon. ISLAND TROUT TRAITS GIVEN

Close Relationship Between Steelheads and Rainbows Caused by Change From Fresh Water

CUTTHROATS OFTEN HARD TO RECOGNIZE

There are certain characteristics by which Steelhead, Rainbow and Cutthroat trout may be distinguished, according to a report made on Island trout by J. R. Dymond recently.

Steelhead is a term applied to a certain large trout when taken in salt water, or when it first moves from salt into fresh water to spawn, or for any other reason. In the sea, and for a short time after it enters fresh water, it is bluish above and shows comparatively few spots. In fresh water it gradually changes from blue to olive green above. More and larger spots appear with a reddish band along the side, more pronounced and of a deeper color under certain conditions.

As in the case with both Atlantic and Pacific salmon, the young Steelhead remains in fresh water for some time before migrating to the sea. The time spent in fresh water varies from one to several years, and some are believed never to enter salt water, being permanent residents of fresh water.

RAINBOW TROUT

Rainbow is the term applied to a black-spotted trout showing a red or purplish band along the side. Hence an individual trout may be a Rainbow at one period of its life and a Steelhead at another. Not all Rainbows, however, migrate to the sea and become Steelheads, for some remain permanently in fresh water either by choice or because they are landlocked. Some of the forms which have been isolated for long ages from their sea-going relatives have developed characteristics by which they may be distinguished from them.

All Rainbow trout are no doubt able to live in salt water, and forms which attain only a small size in their native lake or stream would probably grow to a much larger size in the sea. Young Steelheads, if confined in a brook or lake, would never grow very large. It is interesting to note that brown trout taken from Dorsetshire, England to New Zealand quickly acquired a migratory habit and became large silvery fish, inhabiting the sea for the most part and ascending the rivers to spawn.

CUTTHROAT VARIETY

Cutthroat trout gets its name from a deep red coloration on the under side of the lower jaw. It also has teeth on the back of the tongue in addition to the teeth further forward on the tongue, which all trout possess. The red under the lower jaw varies to a small, pinkish spot, and in many cases to the entire absence of any trace of red. Similarly the teeth on the back of the tongue vary from a definite series of strong teeth to a small patch of weak ones, or none at all.

Recognition of Cutthroats lacking teeth on the back of the tongue and under the lower jaw is often difficult. In such cases it is necessary to have a considerable number of specimens for examination. There are a number of forms of Cutthroats on the Island, some of them migrating to the sea where they take on Steelhead coloration.

AMERICAN PAIR GO TO DEFEAT

Helen Wills and Francis Hunter Eliminated From Mixed Doubles by Cochet and Eileen Bennett

AUTEUIL, France, May 30.—Helen Wills and F. T. Hunter, women's tennis champion and No. 2 ranking male player of America, were defeated today in the mixed doubles final for the international hard court tennis championship by the Anglo-French combination of Eileen Bennett and Henri Cochet.

Harder stroking by Miss Wills and Hunter won them the first set, but superior court generalship, team work, position play and sharpshooting, enabled their opponents to carry the next two and the match, 3-6, 6-3, 6-3. Cochet and Miss Bennett, a polished and perfect team, already held the mixed doubles championship of the United States, which they won there last Summer.

OUT OF DOUBLES

By their defeat today Miss Wills and Hunter passed entirely out of the doubles picture, as Helen previously met defeat in the women's doubles paired with Penelope Anderson, and Hunter, with his partner, Brookes, of Australia, had been eliminated in the men's doubles. Both still survive in the singles, however. In the next round of men's play, Hunter is to encounter Cochet.

Penelope Anderson, in a most bitterly disputed feminine tennis battle, turned back the Australian girl, Louise Bickerton, 6-3, 12-14, 6-2, after more than three hours of play. Both were on the verge of collapse as a result of the twenty-six-game battle for the second set.

Another singles feature was the straight set victory of the Argentine, Ronald Boyd, over Jean Grandquillot, of France, 7-5, 6-3, 6-1. Boyd thus reached the quarter-finals without loss of a single set. His next antagonist will be the winner of the forthcoming round between Cochet and Hunter.

English Professional Shoots Round of Sixty-Nine to Head Field by Seven Strokes

ARCHIE COMPSTON TIED FOR SECOND

NEWCASTLE, Ireland, May 30.—Ernest Whitcombe scored sixty-nine today in the second round of the Irish open golf championship, giving him 137 and a lead of seven strokes on the field. Whitcombe continued his brilliant play of yesterday, when he broke the Royal County Down Golf Club course record with sixty-eight.

Archie Compston also turned in a card of sixty-nine today and is in a tie for second place with a thirty-six-hole score of 144. Abe Mitchell, with seventy-one, today compiled an aggregate of 144 with Compston.

Henry Cotton, the young London pro, started out to give a sensational performance, but slipped at the close. He played the first four holes in twelve strokes, but a nine at the eighteenth gave him a score of seventy-five for the day and 148 for the first thirty-six holes.

The field was reduced tonight by the elimination of all but the low sixty. The survivors will play thirty-six holes tomorrow to decide the championship, now held by George Duncan.

Street Car Fares Not Satisfactory To B.C.E.R. Co.

VANCOUVER, May 30.—Intimation was given city officials Tuesday by George Kidd, president of the B.C.E.R. Company, Ltd., that his company may seek higher street car fares.

A. J. Pilkington, city comptroller, and J. B. Williams, city solicitor, submitted a written report to Mayor Taylor at noon today on the result of their interview with Mr. Kidd and W. G. Murrin, vice-president.

Quoting Mr. Kidd, the report states: "He felt satisfied that no increase of light, power and heat rates would follow from the present financial operations."

The report of the city officials then proceeds:

"Incidentally, and quite apart from the question of the recent change in control of the company, Mr. Kidd stated that the street railway or transportation branch of its activity was on a different footing from the others and that the present fares in the city of Vancouver did not give what was recognized as an adequate return on the capital invested. In other words that transportation at the present rates was not a paying branch of the company."

BEST CHANCE TO SEE PLANET NOW

Mercury Is Well Placed for Observation, Royal Astronomical Society Learns

An interesting programme was enjoyed by the members of the Royal Astronomical Society at their final meeting of the year, held in Victoria College.

The programme consisted of a demonstration, by experiment, of some of the fundamental laws of physics, which was followed by views of the heavenly bodies through a three-inch telescope.

Mr. J. A. Pearce, the president of the association, demonstrated the properties of static electricity, the earth's magnetism, and the electric discharge in gases. He was followed by Mr. R. M. Petrie, who stated the laws of reflection and refraction of light, and gave a vivid demonstration by means of the optical disk. Dr. C. S. Beals gave a few introductory remarks on spectroscopy, and then, by means of several forms of spectroscope, produced spectra by various elements.

The night was clear, and all adjourned to the balcony of the college. Mercury appeared as a beautiful red star low in the west. Through the telescope it was seen as a small half moon. During the next week Mercury will be well in view in the west about an hour after sunset, ten degrees above the horizon. This opportunity of seeing Mercury should not be missed as it is the best this year, and only a small percentage of people have ever observed the fiery little planet. The telescope was next turned on the moon, which is now a little past the first quarter, and numerous craters were observed. Some of them are one hundred miles across. It was almost like looking down on a relief map.

Saturn, in the southeast, brought the evening to a fitting close. No matter how often one has observed this pale yellow planet one turns to it each time with fresh wonder; its form is so perfect, its rings so unique. One moon of the planet and its rings were seen through the telescope. These last appear wide open this year.

BANQUET ENDS CHAPTER'S DAY

Toronto I.O.D.E. Is Host to Visiting Delegates of I.O.D.E.—Victorian Speaks

TORONTO, May 30.—The third day of the annual gathering of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire was brought to a close with a banquet, given tonight by the Toronto chapter, which was attended by women from all parts of Canada. Today's sessions were marked by discussions of the reports of the national educational secretary, the child welfare committee, and of the provincial chapters of Ontario and British Columbia.

At tonight's banquet women from every province brought greetings and renewed assurance of loyalty to the order.

ENDURING TIES

Miss E. M. Church, national president, in proposing the toast to the Empire, referred to the British Empire as the greatest illustration of family ties the world has ever known. Canada was bound to the Motherland, not only by the blood relation, but by ties of citizenship.

Miss Jessie Baker, young Canadian orator, gave a stirring message on citizenship in her speech, "Canada's Future."

Mrs. Gordon Smith, of British Columbia, on her first visit to Toronto, expressed herself as delighted with the welcome and inspiration received here, and hoped to see the national meeting some day in the beautiful climate of the Far Western province.

MATERNAL MORTALITY

Dealing with maternal mortality in her report of the child welfare committee, the convener, Mrs. John A. Stewart, of Perth, Ontario, said:

"In one year we lost 1,532 Canadian mothers in childbirth, or more than four Canadian mothers a day. Some 5,073 children have been left motherless, of whom 768 were babies, mostly newly born. It had been estimated that had proper precautions been taken, at least 1,000 of these mothers could have been saved.

"I can urge no finer child welfare work upon our primary chapters than such assistance in the establishment of maternity wards and nursing facilities in communities in need," said Mrs. Stewart.

Communistic schools were dealt with in the report of the committee on child welfare. The British Columbia convener, Mrs. R. D. Hawkshaw, drew attention to the "urgent necessity of our provincial governments, through their departments of education, taking cognizance of the existence and activities of the communistic schools organized throughout many of our provinces, teaching doctrines subversive, not only of our organized systems of justice and government, but of fundamental doctrines of our civilized Christian life."

CANNOT AGREE ON CROSSING

DUNCAN COUNCIL TO APPLY TO RAILWAY COMMISSIONERS

Seek Ruling on Disputed Point Should Change Be Made in Present Location

DUNCAN, May 30.—The Duncan City Council will apply to the Board of Railway Commissioners at a meeting of that body to be held in Victoria on June 27, for an order for the diversion of the trunk road crossing over the E. & N. tracks near the Agricultural Hall, to a point twenty feet farther to the north. The width of the road is forty feet.

This course was decided upon by the City Council at a special meeting held last night, at which there were present, by invitation, representatives of the Duncan Chamber of Commerce and the Duncan Property Owners' Association. The Chamber of Commerce was represented by Messrs. R. A. Thorpe and O. T. Smythe, and the Property Owners' Association by Messrs. K. F. Duncan and George Savage. The decision to appeal to the Railway Board was unanimous.

The trunk road, both to the east and west of the railway right-of-way, is half on Indian Reserve and half in the city, but the crossing itself is wholly on Indian Reserve, making an awkward and dangerous bend at this much-traveled intersection, and the danger will be greatly increased, it is claimed, by the erection of the Vancouver Milling & Grain Company's new building, now under construction.

Negotiations between the city and railway company regarding this matter, have been under way for a considerable period, but no agreement has been reached. The company is willing for the change to be made, but insists that the city should acknowledge that the new crossing is junior to the railway whereas the present crossing is senior to the railway, and that any order for installing or maintaining any safety appliances for traffic regulation at that point, which might be made at some future time by the commissioners, should be made on the basis of this established fact. The city is unwilling to concede this point which, it is claimed, would saddle the city with costs which would otherwise be borne by the company. The city claims that the change sought is in the interest of public safety, and is not, in fact, a new crossing but merely the adjustment and improvement of an existing one.

The city's action means that the city will apply to the commissioners for an order which will probably be opposed by the company, whereas it was hoped that a joint application for the change might be made by the interested parties.

VITAMIN COMPANY OFFICIALS CONVICTED

CALGARY, Alta., May 30.—J. W. Langs, former president Vitamin Cereal Company, Vancouver; T. G. Stirton, and Harold V. O'Reilly, on Wednesday evening were found guilty by a jury in criminal court on a charge of conspiring to defraud certain shareholders of the Vitamin Cereal Company. Chief Justice Simmons postponed the imposition of the penalty until Wednesday.

Counsel for the accused announced after the trial that an appeal would be taken on the ground that the verdict was unreasonable and could not be supported by the evidence; that there had been a miscarriage of justice and that there had been a misdirection of the jury.

SUITABLE WORK RESTORES MIND

National Council of Women Told of Rehabilitation by Means of Occupation

TORONTO, Ont., May 30.—"Men and women broken by grief, strain or ill-health, have been rapidly rehabilitated by their response to new interests and responsibilities through the guided and careful use of vocational work," stated Dr. Mabel Hannington, of Saint John, N.B., in her report on mental hygiene before the National Council of Women convening at Annesley Hall here today. Scores of cases that have lapsed from one stage to another of melancholy and inertia for lack of occupational interest, could be redeemed through vocational guidance, Mrs. Hannington declared.

TRAINING FEEBLE-MINDED

Institutions for the training, teaching and segregation of the feeble-minded, with adequate parole and supervision systems, were advocated by Dr. Hannington. "The programme for every province should include a psychiatrist available for service in schools, courts and homes should the need arise," she said.

"The question of behaviour problems," among children, neither feeble-minded nor insane, was a subject which would show great developments in the next decade, the speaker believed.

In concluding her report the speaker stressed the need of awakening the governmental authorities and the public to the economy of adequate provision for the feeble-minded.

Fashion Fancies

By Marie Belmont

Here is a frock for an older woman, which is slenderizing in effect and smartly new in addition.

It is of light grey georgette trimmed with lace dyed to match. The pin tucks running vertically on blouse and skirt help to achieve that slim silhouette, as does the wide belt, tightly swathing the hips.

The skirt is interesting in that it is opened down the centre and faced with a plain band of the material.

SOCIAL PROBLEMS ARE DISCUSSED

National Council of Women Considers Vital Questions of Today

TORONTO, May 30.—"The urge of the franchise for women brought the National Council of Women into being and the organization must support the women who had won the franchise and the men who had given it to them," said Mrs. J. A. Wilson, Ottawa, in her presidential address today at the thirty-fifth annual meeting of the National Council of Women of Canada.

Mrs. Wilson said that for many women the National Council was a university, giving them an outlook on the problems of the world and training them to find solutions for those problems.

Responding to addresses of welcome of Mayor Sam McBride and C. L. Burton, president of the Toronto Board of Trade, Mrs. G. O. Fallis, of Vancouver, said that the members of the National Council had 'hitched their wagon to a star —that of educated public opinion."

The organization welcomed those of all political affiliations and all creeds, representing as it did all women's organizations.

A resolution was submitted "that a scheme be worked out by which, with the co-operation of the provincial authorities and the universities, recent graduates in medicine might be sent to render medical service to those of our people who are really pioneering for us and who would otherwise have to struggle on without medical attention."

Another recommendation discussed was one suggesting special instructions under provincial control for the treatment of drug addicts.

Mrs. Dunbar Hudson, of Winnipeg, national convener of the committee on recreation, emphasized the important place which supervised recreation holds in the safeguarding of the ideals of the rising generation.

International oratorical contests were discussed by the League of Nations committee, at which Mrs. Wilson presided. In her annual report she enumerated the work accomplished by different affiliated organizations in furthering the aims of the league. In reviewing the deliberations of the year at Geneva, Mrs. Wilson pointed out that 1927 was marked by outstanding progress.

In connection with the committee on films and printed matter, attention was drawn to the value of introducing a greater number of British films.

Mrs. J. W. Bunsy, of Toronto, national convener of finance, presided at the meeting of the standing committee on finance, when details in connection with the $10,000 budget required for the administration of the council were under consideration. Very satisfactory arrangements were reported in regard to the management of the national finances.

Mrs. Horace Parsons, national secretary and convener of trades and professions, submitted a questionnaire with which the council proposes to make a survey concerning married women in employment—six questions endeavoring to determine whether she is "in gainful occupation through necessity or choice."

ACTIVITIES OF ORDER REVIEWED

National Educational Secretary of I.O.D.E. Gives Comprehensive Review at Convention

TORONTO, May 30.—A comprehensive review of the activities of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire was presented to delegates today at the convention by Miss W. Gordon, Kingston, Ont., national educational secretary.

Two main divisions in Miss Gordon's report embraced the work done by the primary chapters, and that done by the national educational department.

Under the first category, it was stated that last year through special recommendations at the annual meeting in Saint John, ninety-nine chapters took part in this work. This year eighty-four chapters have sent 136 libraries to schools.

"The Fathers of Confederation," was shown to have been the picture most given to schools during the year. British Columbia led in picture giving.

Patriotic and educational work has been continued by gifts of flags, flagpoles, "honor the flag" placards and British and Canadian magazines.

Miss Gordon congratulated the members of the order on the splendid spirit of co-operation which prevails among the provinces in this educational work.

On the work of Canadianization, Alberta chapters have contributed to a fund of the Provincial Chapter to give scholarships to school teachers who are particularly successful in this work.

In British Columbia, Ontario and Saskatchewan, valuable work in teaching English is being done.

WELL-KNOWN WRITER IS VISITOR HERE

Mr. Richard Jebb Has Studied Imperial Questions in Course of Extended Travels

Mr. Richard Jebb, of Ellesmere, Shropshire, England, who is well known for his articles on British Imperial questions, and as a traveler who has studied the Empire at first hand during many extended journeys, is staying at the Empress Hotel with Mrs. Jebb, en route to Fort Alberni to visit a son and daughter-in-law.

Mr. Jebb, who has been a candidate for East Marylebone, London, believes that the Churchill budget will strengthen the Baldwin ministry when it goes to the country, which must occur next year if an Autumn dissolution is deferred. The removal of "sixteenth century shackles on twentieth century industry," as the local rating problem has been described, should aid agricultural land, as well as also the basic industries.

Mr. Jebb's books include "Studies in Colonial Nationalism," "The Imperial Conference, a History and Study," "The Britannic Question," and "The Empire in Eclipse," and various papers on Imperial questions.

In the morning game Carroll Yerkes was so fast that the Seals could never punish him severely. In the afternoon Snead and Jolly, with two homers each, with a man on, gave the Seals an early commanding lead. Dutch Reuther, pitching airtight ball, was hit freely, but was invincible in the pinches.

The Olympic Outlook in The Marathon

By TED MEREDITH
Famous Runner, World and Olympic Champion

By TED MEREDITH
Famous Runner, World and Olympic Champion.

(Copyright, 1928, in all countries by North American Newspaper Alliance.)

Strange as it may seem to track fans in the United States, who generally have little interest in long-distance running, the Marathon run has a very important position on the Olympic programme.

TED MEREDITH

Greek history tells of the tragic run of Pheidipides, a Greek soldier, from Marathon to Athens with the news of Greece's victory in the Battle of Marathon. Pheidipides delivered the message and fell dead.

The modern Marathon is the same distance as that from Marathon to Athens, and carries tradition of which no other event on the Olympic programme can boast.

Marathon Day at an Olympic meeting is one which stays in the minds of the spectators long after the glory of other events has dimmed. I saw my first at Stockholm in 1912. It is a gala and exciting day, yet it carries an impressiveness which seems to grip the crowd without their knowing it.

In the 1908 Marathon, at London, Dorando, gallant little Italian runner, led by a good margin right up to the stadium gates, when he was overcome with fatigue and fell. Helped to his feet and urged to continue, he staggered to within twenty yards or so of the finish, only to collapse again. He was then assisted, an official on either side, across the line.

Dorando was acclaimed the winner by the crowd, but the judges could not allow it. First place went to Johnny Hayes, of the United States, who finished well behind the great little Italian.

HEAT CONQUERED RUNNER

Four years later, at Stockholm, Lazaro, of Portugal, was struck down by the heat and never recovered. So there is about this race something which affects the spectators differently than in a shorter run. There is uncertainty, even among experts on running, of the outcome of such a race. Past performances have to be forgotten.

The fitness of a runner is a big factor. He may have run good races before, in preparation, but conditions come up during that long grind of twenty-six miles, 385 yards, which never can be entirely guarded against.

The United States will send to Amsterdam the most experienced Marathon runner in competition, Clarence DeMar, Boston. Six times a winner of the Boston Marathon, his first win in 1911 and his sixth last April. DeMar, who is nearing forty, never looked better.

This will be his second Olympic trip. He is well trained for such a race, and should start with more confidence and poise than any of his competitors.

Trailing DeMar in his latest Boston Marathon win was Jimmy Henigan, Dorchester, Mass., another Marathon veteran. No doubt he will be selected for the American team of four.

The runner who seems to carry much confidence and even more hope is Joie Ray, Illinois A.C. Joie, after eighteen years of hard and successful competition at distances around one mile, came out of retirement and with only six weeks training over the Marathon distance, finished third at Boston.

RAY HOLDS EIGHT TITLES

Ray has eight national mile championship titles, has run more fast mile races than any other miler, and during his career held virtually every American record indoors, from 1,000 yards to two miles.

The Amsterdam course, being flat, will prove an advantage to Ray. Another advantage will be his speed, which a Marathon runner rearely possesses.

Albert Michelson and Bill Kennedy, both from Portchester, Conn., are two old-time Marathon runners still going strong and bidding for a place on the team. Frank Wendling, Buffalo, is another Marathon runner of experience. J. K. Mullan and Bill Wilson, Philadelphia also are among the best of the contestants for the team from the United States.

Finland won the 1920 and 1920 Marathons. In 1920 DeMar was third, and the only American runner to place well up in the lead. The foreign competition is expected again to be centred in the Finnish runners, but the uncertainty of the race keeps those best versed in its problems from selecting any favorites.

I believe, however, that the American team is stronger this year than ever before.

HOLLAND LOSES TO URUGUAY XI

South Americans Win Olympic Soccer 2-0—Spain Far Too Good for Mexico's Players

AMSTERDAM, May 30.—Uruguay defeated Holland 2 to 0 today in the best played game of the Olympic soccer series, and Spain's superior team work bettered Mexico's defence for a score of 7 to 1.

The battle between the South Americans and Dutch was fierce from the outset, Uruguay's defence was so tight the Hollanders could not score, while the Uruguayans uncovered combination play developed to a point little short of perfection.

The Spaniards were much faster than the Mexicans, but the losers never quit and the pace did not lag as the Spanish team scored goal after goal. For a short time near the close of the match, Spain was on the defensive, but Spain was off in front, and was never in serious danger.

As the result of today's victories Uruguay will play Germany and Spain's next opponent will be Italy.

New Zealanders Win

CAPETOWN, S.A., May 30.—The New Zealand Rugby football team opened their tour of South Africa today and defeated a county team 11-3.

Braves' Manager Collects Two Homers and Double to Boost Stock Close to .400

ROGERS HORNSBY

Paul Waner got only one hit in the double-header at Pittsburgh and slipped to .363, only one point ahead of Ruth, who went hitless.

Frisch had a good day with three hits in eight times at bat, but Cobb was again forced into idleness through illness. Heilmann, going hitless again, took another sharp fall. The standing up to date:

Jokers Taste First Defeat of Season at Hands of "Caps" in New Ball Series Last Evening

TIMELY HITTING SPELLS VICTORY

Timely hitting and snappier fielding, coupled with a few bad errors by the Westholme Hotel shortstop gave Capital san 11-3 victory over the Hotelmen in the first game of the interleague baseball series played played at the Royal Athletic last night.

Jokers outhit their rivals, but were unable to deliver in the pinches. Mummery, who worked for the Hotelmen, was wild at times and issued seven free trips to the first sack. He breezed two.

Jack Curtis, veteran hurler from the Capitals' camp, heaved consistent ball throughout and with the exception of one error by the right-fielder, was accorded airtight support. Curtis struck out five and was nicked for eleven hits.

Killick, first sacker of the Jokers, gave the fans an added thrill in the first inning when he clouted the "apple" over the centre field fence with one on. Donaldson pulled off a number of fine running catches. The game went nine innings.

Another Pitchers' Duel Expected This Evening

Holness and Whiteside to Take Mound When Sons of Canada and Eagles Hook Up in Senior Amateur Ball Conflict

The classic of this season's senior amateur ball tussle is slated for tonight, when the Sons of Canada and Eagles hook up at 6:15 o'clock at the Royal Athletic Park. The game promises to be a duplicate of the last meeting, when the teams broke even after a hectic encounter.

Bill Holness, sixteen-year-old son of the veteran Jimmy Holness, is slated to work for the Sons against his rival, Eric Whiteside. These two boys put up a finished exhibition of ball heaving at the last encounter, which ended with a one-all score, and look like the best mound artists in the league.

Holness and Whiteside were extremely stingy at the last meeting of the squads, and only one hit was garnered, this coming when Ralph Mawhinney took a wild swing and connected for a single off Whiteside. Another pitching duel is expected when the teams tangle tonight.

Manager Roy Copas, of the Sons, and Manager Bobbie Ross, of the feathered tribe, are looking for a victory. If the birdmen can halt the last year's champs they will be the first. Both teams have been working out regularly and a great battle should result.

ROY COPAS

Playing manager of the Sons of Canada senior ball squad, who will lead his team in the battle against the Eagles tonight. Copas will start Bill Holness, his first string pitcher, and is looking for a win. The biggest crowd of the season is expected to watch tonight's game. Whiteside will work for the Eagles.

MEYERS WINS 500-MILE RACE

Twenty - Three - Year - Old Driver Averages Close to Hundred Miles Per Hour

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 30.—Lou Meyers, a twenty-three-year-old novice driver of Los Angeles, won the 500-mile race at the Indianapolis motor speedway today, thrilling a record crowd of 135,000 to 150,000. Lou Moore, of Hollywood, Cal., was second.

Meyers won by about two and a half miles. George Souders, the former Purdue student, winner of the race last year, was third, about five miles back of Meyers. Meyers drove the entire 500 miles without relief and only made one stop of two minutes and fifteen seconds to take on gas, oil and water and change tires. Meyers averaged 99.482 miles an hour. His time was 5:01:33.75.

Ray Keech, of Philadelphia, holder of the world record for one mile, finished fourth, about twenty-five miles behind the flying leader.

The twelve leaders finished in today's 500-mile automobile race, together with time and miles per hour average:

Ingram McGavin Enters Colonist Bicycle Race

Flashy Young Rider Will Be Seen in Action in Big Event Carded for June 8—Entry Date Nears End

Ingram McGavin, one of the many younger riders who will compete in The Colonist bicycle race, carded for June 8, filed his entry yesterday. In the Province road race, held in Vancouver, this local rider finished third in a strong field, and if he had known the course he would have had little difficulty in carrying off the honors. He has been working out on The Colonist course regularly and is all set for the big event.

Inquiries and entries are being received daily, and everything points to this year's field being larger than in previous years. Only five days remain in which to file entries and riders are advised to attend to this matter as soon as possible.

TILLICUMS GAIN FIRST VICTORY

Clubmen Upset Dope in Commercial Baseball League by Defeating Sidney 6-0

LLOYD CANN HERO IN SHUTOUT GAME

Lloyd Cann, youthful twirler of the Tillicums, heaved his teammates to a 6-0 victory over Sidney last night on the millmen's home ground for the first shutout chalked up in the Commercial Baseball League this season. The clubmen, who have been coasting along in the cellar position, upset the dope bucket last night by trouncing the millmen.

Tillicums landed on Wade Steele's offerings in the second inning and drove five runners over the home plate. Steele's teammates, however, gave him wobbly support during this onslaught. In the fifth the winners drove over their sixth and last run.

RANGERS OPEN TOUR WITH WIN

Scottish Soccer Champions Easily Defeat Pennsylvania All-Stars Eight to Two

PHILADELPHIA, May 30.—The Glasgow Rangers, the Scottish soccer champions, opened their American tour here today with a victory over the Eastern Pennsylvania All-Stars. The score was 8 to 2. The match was played in the Municipal Stadium on the Sesquicentennial grounds.

The Scottish champions had things all their own way. Local soccer experts were of the opinion that the visitors could have increased their score if they had drawn upon their full resources. McPhail and Fleming, of the Rangers, scored three goals each, while Archibald and Morton made the other two. Rudolph and Lindsay scored the goals for the All-Stars.

About 4,000 persons took a chance on the threatening weather to witness the match.

As Told by Big Leaguers Talking Today

KENT GREENFIELD: The Time I Pitched Against Alexander and Didn't Know It.

CY WILLIAMS: The Big Thrill I Got at the First Big League Game I Ever Saw.

EDDIE COLLINS: My Exciting Race With Heinie Zimmerman.

By J. P. GLASS

JACK Fournier was still a green recruit when, as a Chicago White Sox, he went into his first city series against the Cubs. However, Jack could lambast the ball even then, and so Manager Callaghan sent him to bat in a pinch late in one game. He made a hit that decided the issue in favor of the Sox.

Fournier hadn't the slightest idea who was pitching against him when he made his vital hit. Later he found out. It was Mordecai (Three-Fingered) Brown, who ranked with Christy Mathewson as the greatest right-hander of his day.

Jack tells this story at his own expense with great glee. It's good. But scarcely better than a confession of Kent Greenfield's.

"I was an absolutely inexperienced Kentucky lad when I joined the New York club," says Kent. "I only had had one season's work with the Portsmouth, Virginia League, team.

"McGraw shipped me to New Haven in the Eastern League and recalled me at the end of the season. I got a try-out against the Phillies and they made seven runs in three innings, but McGraw told me not to worry. 'You'll be all right next year,' he said.

"One afternoon the next Spring, I was out in the bullpen when I got a signal to come in and pitch. It was the eighth inning of a game with Chicago.

"'All right, Kent, said McGraw reassuringly, 'go to it.'

"I was so nervous I scarcely knew where I was. But in the two innings I pitched I struck out five of the six men to face me. Say, that was the greatest hour of my life. I felt all the better after the Giants scored a couple of runs and we won, 5 to 3.

"After the game was over I got to wondering about the big, tall fellow who was pitching for Chicago. Who was he?

"I asked someone. I thought I'd drop dead when the answer came.

"'Gosh, kid, that was Grover Alexander!'"

AND CY SAW SOMETHING

Two or three years ago a woman acquaintance of this writer went to see a tennis match in which Bill Tilden played Jean Borotra, the Frenchman. She never had seen a tennis match before and she hasn't seen one since. But that day, she, who had almost no interest in tennis, was privileged to witness a historic event—an event which devotees of the game had been awaiting with intense interest over a period of years. She saw Tilden beaten, no longer invincible.

This recalls what happened to Cy Williams, the home-run hitter of the Phillies, who a few weeks ago dented the Giants for a game by hitting a four sacker when sent up as a pinch batter.

"It was a long time ago, before I became a professional ball player," says Cy. "I went to see a game between the Cubs and the New York Giants, in Chicago. It was in the days of the Tinker to Evers to Chance combination.

"It was the first major league game I ever saw and you can imagine the thrill I received when the following play was made:

"Reulbach was pitching for the Cubs and the Giants made three successive hits that filled the bases without anyone scoring. Murray, one of the fastest men in baseball then, was the Giant baserunner on third. I don't remember who were the baserunners on first and second, nor the man at bat.

"Whoever he was, he caught the ball pitched by Reulbach full on the nose. It screamed back over Reulbach's head like a cannot shot, bound for centre, and it looked like the old ball game was busted up.

"The pitcher jumped and succeeded in getting his gloved hand on the ball. He slowed it up considerably, and it curved in a low arc right over second base.

"Johnny Evers, the Cub second baseman, had started toward the bag on the crack of the bat. He snared the ball on the run, stepped on second, retiring the base runner, who had started for third, and then fired the ball to third base.

"Murray had taken a lead toward home, but the play came so quickly he could run in neither direction. He was caught flatfooted for a triple play.

"It was all so sudden the fans didn't realize the Giants had been retired. I didn't get over the experience for a long time. Think of it—a triple play the first time I ever saw a big league game!"

EDDIE SHOWS HIS SPEED

Eddie Collins asserts that perhaps the most exciting play in which he ever took part was one that counted in winning for the Chicago White Sox their world series of 1917 against the New York Giants.

Mention of this play brings to mind "Happy" Felsh, the old White Sox star, who was outlawed after the world series scandal of 1919. "Happy," who only recently was given permission to play in a little midwestern bush league, figured in the incident Collins describes.

"The fans will recall," says Eddie, "that in 1917 we went to New York for the sixth game of the world series, hoping to end it. We had won three games and the Giants two.

"It was in this game that I ran my celebrated foot race with Heinie Zimmerman, the Giant third baseman.

"I had reached second base when Zimmerman snagged my grounder and threw over the first baseman's head. I went to third when Outfielder Robertson dropped Joe Jackson's fly. Then 'Happy' Felsh grounded to Benton, who was pitching for the Giants.

"I ran off third, hoping to distract Benton's attention and stop a double play that would retire Jackson and Felsh at second and first. It was a mistaken bit of headwork. Benton had foreseen I would do just that thing and he fired the ball to Zimmerman at third, catching me between that bag and the plate.

"In the run down I saw that none of the Giants were covering the plate. I set sail with all speed. Zimmerman chased me, but I was too fast. I won the foot race and scored a run. This unsettled the Giants and we added two more scores before the inning was over. They were enough to win, as the Giants only got two more tallies during the entire game.

"Zimmerman got a terrible panning for his play, but he didn't merit it, in my opinion. There was no one in position to take a throw from him. He simply had to run after me. If someone had been covering the plate I couldn't have scored. Heinie wasn't a bonehead after all!

"But there was sure plenty of excitement crowded into that incident!"

Boom won by a hair length, with Aucilla a nose in front of Canter, the race being decided in the last twenty yards.

PONIES SHATTER TRACK RECORDS

Bocaratone and Florence Mills Set Marks at Aurora—Little Guinea Returns Handsome Odds

(Special to The Colonist)

AURORA EXPOSITION PARK, May 30.—Holiday weather and a record-breaking track greeted the largest crowd of Aurora's history today. More than 25,000 sport lovers witnessed sport par excellence, that started with fever pitch excitement at the first bugle note and continued scintillating until the last race of the day was run. Two track records were surpassed during the afternoon, and several others were almost equalled.

Collecting a bulge figure of $32.50 on Mrs. J. Dreyer's Little Guinea, who pattered home handily under superb guidance by Cubanola De Prema, the race fans started the day happily.

American Thunder peeled a few $7.40 notes off the mutuel roll for his backers in a swift three-quarter in 1:12. Blushing Maiden covered a five and a half in 1:06, the best time that filly has ever made, taking the third event, also alertly ridden by the little Cuban.

Bocaratone sprung another surprise in the fourth, breaking the track record for the mile held by Smiling Gus, of 1:39 2-5 in 1926. When Bocaratone's time of 1:39 was posted, the crowd cheered as wildly as they had one when he nosed out Cup o' Tea.

Eleven of best sprinters at the track went to the post in the Decoration Day Handicap. Mrs. O. Viao's Florence Mills, a bay mare known as one of the best calibre in a sensational finish after early torrid going. Ably reined by Jockey Allen, Florence ran her former stable mate, Rip Rap and the Kentucky favorite Devon, right into the ground. The two heartiest contenders could not be made to fold up until three-quarters of the distance had been traversed. The mare covered the distance, a mile and a sixteenth, in 1:45, two-fifths of a second below the speed of Cross Bow for the distance in 1926.

INTEREST GREAT IN COMING BOUT

Big Demand for Tickets for Miller-Lyall Mix Slated for Saturday Night—Maddison Dix Coming

"Dusty" Miller, colored pugilist of Seattle, who is matched with Jimmie Lyall, of Victoria, in the main event of Saturday's fight card will workout tonight at the Tillicum Athletic Club gymnasium for the last time before he climbs over the ropes to meet the local light-heavyweight. Miller leaves for Mount Vernon, Wash., tomorrow where he is billed to meet "Red" Hanlon in a six-round bout. He will arrive back in the city on Saturday. Lyall and Miller went through a hard workout last night before a large number of fight fans. Great interest is being shown in the forthcoming programme which looks like the best card presented here for many years.

Bobby James, sparring partner of "Dusty" Miller, who is to meet Maddison Dix, of Portland, over the six-round route in the semi-windup bout has been working out nightly with the colored American boy, and is in great shape for his fight. Dix is a popular figure with fight fans along the Pacific Coast and has appeared as headliner on a number of good cards.

Tommy Best, of Duncan, will step four rounds with "Scotty" Sinnott in one of the preliminary bouts. Best is rated as a comer, while Sinnott is one of those boys who loves to mix. This go should produce plenty of thrills for the fans.

Danny Pastroe and Roland Butler, of Seattle, will travel the four-round route in the second bout, with Neel, the fighting barber, meeting a Seattle opponent in the opening mix. Reserved seat sale is now on at F. B. Richardson's, 736 Yates Street.

Physicians Examine Pyle's Marathoners

PHILADELPHIA, May 30.—Thirty-eight of the athletes of C. C. Pyle's cross-continent runners were given a physical "overhauling" today by physicians of the Jefferson Hospital staff.

While the complete report of the examination will not be made public for some time, it was informally stated that all were found to be in a normal physical condition.

The physicians were particularly interested in the examination of the runners' feet. They said there were a few cases of aggravated foot inflammation, but in the main the feet appeared to have suffered but little from the long grind.

FAIRWAY FAVORED TO TAKE DERBY

Lord Derby's Colt Is Eleven to Four Against to Cop English Turf Classic

LONDON, May 30.—In the public eye chief contention for the great Epsom Derby, which will be run next Wednesday, lies between Lord Derby's fine colt, Fairway, champion of the two-year-olds last year, and Sir Lawrence Phillips' speedy Flamingo, winner of the classic Two Thousand Guineas two weeks ago. Fairway, because of illness, did not run in the Guineas. He is practically fully recovered, however, making a swift gallop of full Derby distance at Newmarket Heath today under the eyes of Lord and Lady Derby.

Betting in London tonight was 11 to 4 against Fairway and 11 to 2 against Flamingo. Sunny Trace comes next at 9 to 1, with the odds 100 to 8 against Ranjit Singh and Royal Minstrel, the Craven winner; 100 to 6 against Bubbles, and 20 to 1 against Gang Warily. The others to start are, at the present, rank outsiders.

CHALLENGE TO INFANT BAPTISM

Professor Everson Expresses View in Contradiction to Orthodox Christianity

"Unless a man is baptized he can never expect to see the inside of the glory country. Christ said that except a man be born of water and the Spirit he cannot enter the kingdom of God. Christ gave an example by being baptized Himself. He gave the command for everyone to be baptized, and He commanded his disciples to baptize. There is no ordinance more thoroughly established in the Bible than the ordinance of baptism," are some of the statements made by Professor Charles T. Everson last night at the Big Tabernacle on Pandora Avenue and Vancouver Streets.

"If I were the author of a statement that nobody could be saved unless he was baptized, nobody would lay awake nights worrying about it. But when Christ, the God of heaven, made it, every man that has not been baptized ought to sit up and take notice. Besides giving the command and the penalty if it is not carried out, Christ also gave an example of the manner in which it should be administered. Christ was baptized by John in the River Jordan. They both went down into the river. Christ was baptized in the river, and then they both came up out of the river. It is certain that Christ was immersed or they would never have gone down into the river. John could have brought up a cupfull of water from the river and sprinkled Christ out on the bank. If Christ went down into the river it was for a purpose, for He never dealt in things that were not necessary.

"Paul says that baptism is a symbol of death, burial and resurrection. Now you can't bury a man by just sprinkling a few grains of sand on his casket. Neither can you bury a man in baptism by just sprinkling a few drops of water on his forehead. One must go clear under in order to be buried. Sprikling was never practised until 800 years after Christ went to heaven.

"I do not believe that infants should be baptized. Before a child comes to the age of accountability there is no sin laid to its account and it does not need baptism. One should repent and believe before he is baptized, the Bible teaches. An infant can do neither, so should not be baptized."

Tonight Professor Everson will speak on "The Two Covenants: Was the Old Made With the Jews, and the New With the Gentiles?"

LOCAL BUSINESS CHANGES NAME

Well-Established Firm of Drake Hardware Will Be Known as Hatt's Hardware Store

Mr. J. M. Hatt, who purchased the old established firm of Drake Hardware Co., Ltd., about a year ago, announced yesterday that the name would be changed to Hatt's Hardware Store.

Mr. Hatt, who is a former Victorian, operated hardware stores at Terrace and Smithers in the interior of British Columbia for some five years. He came here a year ago with the opinion that business conditions here warranted a hardware store catering to the popular priced trade. So in buying the Drake Hardware Store, he combined popular prices with quality.

The new policy of the store is to specialize in household utensils and tools, besides catering to the building trade, which the Drake Hardware specialized in for years. The policy of display is also being changed to conform with the policy of selling household garden tools, workshop kits and domestic utensils.

Governments Back World Wheat Fair

FOR the past two or three years the wheat growers in Canada have been discussing the proposal of holding a world's grain congress in this country. This idea has now taken definite shape and the first world's grain congress will be held at Regina in 1932. A committee has been appointed to start off in tangible form this great undertaking, which includes, left to right, Hon. C. M. Hamilton, Minister of Agriculture for Saskatchewan; Hon. George Hoadley, Minister of Agriculture for Alberta, and Hon. W. R. Motherwell, Federal Minister of Agriculture, who is the chairman.

At The Playhouses

COLISEUM THEATRE The stage presentations at the Coliseum Theatre this week are highly entertaining. First on the programme is Eileen Bennett, the popular Victoria soprano, singing two popular numbers in a very pleasing voice. Closing the programme is a one-act playlet by Richard Blomfield, entitled "Sathanus Suggests." The cast of characters are: A man with a past (Eric Bryce), a man with a future (Richard Blomfield). On the stage are two great features. The first is a comedy entitled "Tillie's Punctured Romance."

PLAYHOUSE THEATRE "Millionaires," the Warner Bros. production suggested by E. Phillips Oppenheim's novel, "The Inevitable Millionaires," is now current at the Playhouse Theatre, with Vera Gordon, Louise Fazenda and George Sidney in the cast. It is a double love story masterfully interwoven, relating the effect of sudden wealth upon a lovable old Jewish tailor and his wife, and upon their son and the girl he loves. The picture is most sympathetically and amusingly told, with a novel treatment of its vital situations and a surprising new twist at the end.

DOMINION THEATRE Will Stanton, who plays the comedy role of "Quartermaster Bates" in Gloria Swanson's second independent United Artists picture, "Sadie Thompson," the current attraction at the Dominion Theatre, comes from the English music halls, which have developed some of the outstanding pantomimists of the stage and screen. He made a tour of America with a company in which Charles Chaplin was starred in England. The company disbanded in America and Stanton played in several Shubert productions at the New York Winter Garden. Then he went into vaudeville and remained a headliner until his motion picture debut a year ago.

The enthusiasm which is shown by Dominion audiences on the appearance of Dixon and Grey the famous KOMO radio singers, on their return engagement is a marked tribute to their undoubted popularity. Their numbers, ranging from grand opera to popular ballads, were received in a manner that forced the two artists to respond with additional songs and duets. Their entire programme has that bright and entertaining quality that is ideal from an audience standpoint. Every one of their numbers was an unqualified success.

CAPITOL THEATRE Haines' latest starring picture, "The Smart Set," now playing at the Capitol Theatre, was based on polo, and the star spent two months learning the game on a private field fixed up for him by the studio in Culver City, where he practiced constantly under the direction of Sanford Hewitt, former member of the Yale Varsity polo team. The story of "The Smart Set" is an original by Morgan and Ann Price. The story is based upon the international cup contest between Britain and America played at the famous Meadowbrook field on Long Island.

"Rare Glee Singing Treat" at Royal On June 1 and 2

With this heading The Toronto Telegram musical critic reports on the appearance there of the Westminster Glee Singers, which were received with packed houses. This critic goes on to say: "If you were a millionaire, you would have them sing for you for a whole week, and see to it that every choir, glee club, quartette, soprano, contralto, tenor and bass soloist in the city heard them. For their singing is that rare, restful and absolutely satisfying kind which you never tire of. Easy singing, expressive beyond description or praise. Singing whose tone never pierces, or sets your tonsils throbbing by its operatic intensity, but which is pure, faultless, perfectly balanced and blended in ensemble, and clear and steady as the light of a beautiful planet. The Westminster Glee Singers appear here at the Royal Victoria Theatre, under the auspices of the local Gyro Club, Friday and Saturday evenings, this week.

Police Dog Too Realistic in Attack On Fairbanks

Even Daniel had assistance when he was cast into the lions' den, but when William Fairbanks was called upon to play the heavy role in "Under the Black Eagle" with Flash, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's new police dog star, the actor had nothing to rely upon save luck. Fully police trained and taught to mean business when ordered to attack a man, Flash failed to understand he was only acting while in front of the camera. Twice he tore most of the clothing off Fairbank's and one one occasion attempted to sever the actor's jugular vein with his sharp and powerful fangs. "Under the Black Eagle," now playing at the Columbia Theatre, marks the dog's debut on the screen, and while he was friendly enough to everybody in the cast while the picture was being made, could not help but take his trainer's orders seriously when told to attack.

Slow Motion of Famous Fight Comes To Playhouse

Something of very special interest has been added to the show of picture features that opens at the Playhouse Theatre next Monday, the exclusive motion pictures of the Jimmy McLarnin-Sammy Mandell battle for the lightweight championship that took place in New York last week. The magnificent try for the championship in which the whole of Canada was interested and in which Jimmy McLarnin, Vancouver's fistic pride, covered himself with glory for his dogged courage and in which he battled fiercely to the last second of the fifteenth round, is said to make one of the finest fight pictures in years. Close-ups and slow motion at critical spots in the battle show clearly how McLarnin was just unable to fathom the shifty evasions of Sammy Mandell, but also show that Mandell's pecking did little or nothing to hurt Jimmy, who fought tigerishly to land the duplicate of that punch that toppled the pride of New York, Sid Terris, recently.

"The Lost World" Shows on Screen at Variety This Week

The prehistoric dinosaurs of "The Lost World," which are amazing patrons of the Variety Theatre, are brought to life on the picture screen as a result of the pioneering spirit of Watterson R. Rothacker. This picture is the first in film history where the brontosaurus, triceratops, megalosaurus, pterodactyl, trachodon, diplodocus and other creatures of 10,000,000 years ago are with reality reincarnated in the movie. The feat marks a cinema epoch. And speaking of strong casts, "The Lost World" has the strongest in film history. The cast includes the brontosaurus, triceratops, allosaurus, pterodactyl, megalosaurus, diplodocus and other species of prehistoric dinosaurs which lived 10,000,000 years ago. All of them were several times larger than elephants and many times stronger.

Salient Points of the Bidding

Following South's bid of one No Trump, Fourth Hand bids two Spades. Having two stoppers in that suit and a powerful hand otherwise, South bids two No Trumps.

Salient Points of the Play

Trick 2. South counts his winning tricks as nine, allowing for the loss of a trick through an unsuccessful Club finesse. While these tricks appear on the surface they cannot be made without careful play, particularly in view of East's menacing Spade holding.

To shut out Spades must therefore first engage the Declarer's attention. If South adopts familiar tactics, playing for his strongest suit (Clubs) first, by means of the Queen of Diamonds in Dummy and a Club finesse, a second Spade lead setting up the suit may follow upon West's winning the Club trick. After Declarer makes his Clubs and Diamonds, East will enter with the Ace of Hearts if he holds it, which he probably does, and make his remaining Spades, leaving Declarer with eight tricks, one short of game. For the dual purpose, therefore, of killing the Spade suit and making the necessary Heart trick for game, South must immediately lead Hearts to drive out the adverse Ace. This can be done without ultimate loss, regardless of the division of Hearts held adversely.

By RUBY M. AYRES

X—WHAT DOLLY SAID

Presently Hubbard asked Biddy to dance.

"I'm not much of a dancer," he apologized, "but I'll do my best if you think you can put up with me."

It was all nonsense, of course, as the Little Flapper discovered, for he danced divinely, and she loved the strong feel of his arm around her little body, and the careful way in which he guided her through the crowded room.

He was so kindly attentive. He listened to her simple chatter with so much interest.

In spite of her shorn locks and fashionably abbreviated skirts, the Little Flapper had not the modern sangfroid of Dolly Benson and her friends. She still knew the discomfort of occasional shyness, and the painful doubt that she might not always be saying or doing the correct thing.

But with Hubbard she was quite at her ease, and she laughed and chattered away to him happily enough of her own small affairs and interests.

Amongst other things, she presently told him how she adored Marna.

"She's such a darling. I don't know what I should do without her. I was terrified this evening when she fainted." She shivered in his arms. "I thought she was dead. Oh, what should I do without her?"

Hubbard did not answer, and, looking up, afraid lest her chatter was wearying him, Biddy was struck by the deep sadness of his eyes. And she remembered that for more than five years he had done without Marna, and would have to again. Impulsively she dashed off to another subject.

"When are you going away again, Mr. Hubbard?"

That hardly seemed the right thing to ask, either, seeing that he had only just come home, but Hubbard answered at once:

"I am only over for a few weeks on busines."

"And then you will go back again?"

"I must."

"Why must you?" the Little Flapper asked, true to her policy of trying to get to the bottom of every question, and Hubbard answered:

"Because my work is out there, and there is nothing for me in England."

An ordinary enough reason, but in the light of the Little Flapper's new understanding it seemed fraught with a deep significance and sadness, and once again back came the memory of herself as a child of twelve, clinging to the polished baluster rail and looking down on this man and Marna talking together.

". . . Don't you think I am suffering, too?"

The Little Flapper raised her eyes kindly to Hubbard's face, and the thought came into her mind that it must be a very wonderful thing to be loved by this man; it must mean something so much greater and more profound than the almost boyish adoration which George Paget gave to his wife—something that would last for ever and ever—something which, as Marna herself had said only that evening, all the wealth in the world could not give to one for one's own.

"A penny for your thoughts, Biddy," Hugh Hubbard said lightly; and the Little Flapper roused herself with a start to answer:

"I was thinking of something Marna said this evening."

"What did she say?"

The dance was over now, and together they walked out into the hall and found seats on a big couch in a corner.

The Little Flapper clasped her hands behind her head and leaned back against the cushions with a sigh.

"She said there are such heaps of things in the world that money cannot buy."

"Did she? What sort of things?"

"I think she meant happiness."

Hubbard made no comment. He sat leaning a little forward, his hands clasped losely between his knees, his eyes fixed on the floor.

Biddy looked at him with sorrowful eyes. When they first met that evening she had thought him unchanged, but now she could see that there was much grey in his close-cut hair, and many lines about his eyes.

"He doesn't look happy," she thought, and felt almost glad.

If Marna was to be unhappy, it was only fair that this man should be unhappy, too.

Dolly Benson came flying up to them, her eyes bright and eager.

"I suppose you don't remember me, Mr. Hubbard? I used to go to school with Biddy years ago, when you were home. Mr. Paget always called me the Big Flapper."

Hubbard rose to his feet, a polite lie on his lips.

"Of course I remember you. You haven't changed at all—except that you're so grown up. I feel afraid of you."

Later, when Hubbard had gone to find another partner, Dolly Benson flung herself upon the Little Flapper.

"Isn't he too divine?" she demanded, with her usual extravagance. "Quite the most striking-looking man in the room. Fancy him, remembering me! I always adored him years ago—you remember how I always adored him, don't you, Biddy? Oh, I do hope he will ask me to dance!"

The Little Flapper looked rather scornful. She was accustomed to Dolly's sudden violent fancies, and never took her outbursts very seriously.

"I thought John Blair was the only pebble on your beach," she said unkindly.

The Big Flapper hunched her white shoulders.

"I've done with him," she announced calmly. "He took that hateful Hall girl to Ciro's last night, and if he thinks I'm going to dance with him after that, just because she isn't here, he's made the mistake of his young life. I'll make him eat out of my hand before I've done with him!"

She flung a half-smoked cigarette into the fireplace.

"And that's where I'd like to fling him as well," she added viciously. She took a lipstick and mirror from a tiny vanity bag and retouched her lips.

"Where's my darling Mr. Hubbard now?" she asked rapturously, when her toilet was completed. "Oh, there he is, talking to Marna. My dear, did you ever see such unashamed happiness in any woman's face?"

The Little Flapper's heart gave a sudden throb as her eyes followed the direction of Dolly's eagle glance.

Hubbard and Marna were standing together, talking and smiling like ordinary people, and yet there was something so different about them—something that seemed to radiate contentment and perfect happiness.

"If I had not know the truth before, I should know now," Biddy Saunders told herself in panic, and she wondered how long it would be before George Paget's kindly, unsuspecting eyes were open to the truth. But she scowled at Dolly Benson.

"And why shouldn't Marna look happy?" she demanded crossly. "She's always trying to make other people happy."

"My sainted aunt!" the Big Flapper ejaculted blankly. "Anyone would think I was running Marna down. I merely said I never saw such unashamed happiness in any woman's face." She paused and a twinkle grew in her eyes. "I never even suggested a reason for it," she said wickedly. "Not that I couldn't if I chose——" Then, seeing Biddy's growing wrath, she relented. "There, I'm only teasing," she declared. "It's fun teasing you. And now tell me, is Mr. Hubbard going to stay in the house?"

"Yes, I think so," Biddy admitted reluctantly.

The Big Flapper gave an ecstatic sigh.

"How heavenly. I'm so thankful Marna asked me to stay for a few days, too."

Biddy screwed up her little nose scornfully.

"You don't imagine Mr. Hubbard will ever taken any notice of you, do you?"

The Big Flapper sighed and stuck out her long, slender legs, regarding her silk stockings and daintily buckled shoes with pride.

"Well, there's no harm in hoping," she said sententiously. "And anyway, nobody can prevent me adoring him from afar."

She sighed again.

"He's the sort of man I've always dreamed about—the sort of man you could go to if you were in any trouble or if you were unhappy, and be quite sure that he would understand and put things right for you," she said sentimentally.

"Any nice man would do that." Biddy declared positively, and thought of George Paget, who never turned a deaf ear to a tale of distress.

"Oh, would they!" the Big Flapper scoffed. "You ought to hear what my old man says when things go wrong and the mater is silly enough to go to him about it. I learnt better, after all these years. Of course, in his way he's quite a kind old bean, but you might as well go to that"—she kicked the leg of the couch—"as to go to father for help or comfort."

She sat up with renewed enthusiasm.

"Hugh Hubbard's quite different. He has that sort of look in his eyes, I suppose you haven't noticed it, but it's the sort of look that seems to put protecting arms around you, if you can understand."

Biddy looked profoundly amazed. She had always considered Dolly Benson rather shallow and superfluous, and she found this sudden plumbing of the depths very perplexing.

"You certainly sound as if you rather adore him," she said resentfully.

The Big Flapper sighed.

"It's no use, as I know he doesn't even approve of me," she said disconsolately. "I read it in his eyes at once. I suppose my skirts are too short, or I'm too cheeky, or something, but oh, Biddy, don't you just love the back of his head?"

Biddy stared.

"The back of his head?"

"Yes. Of course, you haven't noticed that, either. You wouldn't. But I always notice odd things like that. The back of his head is divine—such a lovely square look."

Biddy's eyes were angry.

"You are talking rubbish," she protested.

"Am I?" The Big Flapper laughed, then suddenly sprang to her feet. "They're playing that divine fox trot!" she cried breathlessly. "Listen, Biddy!"

Health and Diet Advice

A CURE FOR HICCUPS

Occasionally we read of some prominent individual dying of hiccups, after practically every remedy was tried without success. Most cases of hiccups are only of short duration, however, and usually the nervous system can be restored by taking a long drink of cold water, or breathing in and out deeply a number of times.

This disorder often comes after a hearty meal which causes a pressure on the diaphragm. It is a spasmodic contraction of the muscular diaphragm, which we use for breathing. This contraction is either nervous in origin, or is caused by irritation or pressure on the diaphragm.

When too much food starts the contraction, this may continue until the stomach becomes empty, which may require eight or ten hours. By this time the diaphragm is apt to be sore and irritated and keep on with its spastic jerks unless a remedy is employed.

Hiccups may develop in the course of wasting diseases or from brain irritation, kidney stones or pelvic disorders. In any of these conditions, the principal disease should be cared for, but a great relief will result from stopping the hiccups.

I have been able to stop every case that has come to my attention within a few minutes by the simple treatment of pressure upon the central cervical plexus. This is a collection of nerve bodies located on each side of the spine about the middle of the neck.

The patient may administer this treatment himself by placing the fingers of each hand firmly on the sides of his neck, pulling forward and, at the same time, bending the head back as far as possible. The reason is that this pressure inhibits the nerve impulses of the phrenic nerve, which is one of the important nerves supplying the diaphragm. This nerve may also be deadened temporarily by the application of ice to each side of the neck.

Should this self-applied treatment not be sufficient to stop the trouble, it would be well to call in an osteopath or chiropractor who, by making pressure at exactly the right spot, will stop the spasms almost instantly.

Of course, you realize that if there is a chronic cause, the hiccup is apt to return in a few hours, and every effort should be employed to ascertain and cure the original cause.

After-dinner sufferers should remember what I have said about eating too much food, eating too rapidly, or using food that produces too much stomach gas. By acting accordingly, they can avoid having future attacks.

LINER TAKES ADVERTISERS

AMERICAN EXPERTS LEAVE FOR HONOLULU ON NIAGARA

Canadian-Australasian Liner Sails for Antipodes With 3,600 Tons of Cargo

About thirty American advertising experts, headed by Mr. Marshall Dana, managing editor of The Portland Journal, and Mr. Lloyd Spencer, general advertising manager of The Seattle Post-Intelligencer, sailed on the Niagara last night for Honolulu to attend the advertising conference to be held there shortly.

The party arrived here from Seattle on yesterday afternoon's boat and were met on their arrival by Mr. G. I. Warren, publicity commissioner. The visitors were taken to Butchart's Gardens, Beacon Hill Park and other beauty spots in and near the city before they embarked on the Canadian-Australasian liner.

Prominent among the passengers on the Niagara was Professor W. F. Osborne, of the University of Manitoba, who is en route to Australia and New Zealand for the purpose of securing educational experts and business men as delegates to the next National Educational Conference which will be held at Vancouver in the Easter week of next year.

Professor Osborne said that the convention, which will probably attract from 1,200 to 1,500 delegates, will spend part of its time in this city.

The forthcoming convention will be the fourth held in the Dominion. The first was at Winnipeg in 1918, the second at Toronto in 1923 and the third at Montreal in 1926. Distinguished educationists, scientists and literary men from various parts of the world, such as Sir Henry Newbolt, Sir Michael Sadler and Sir John Adams, have attended previous conferences.

Professor Osborne will be away for about four months.

The Niagara docked here from Vancouver at 6:30 o'clock last night and put to sea several hours afterwards. When she left the Rithet Consolidated piers she had a big cargo of 3,600 tons beneath her hatches.

The passenger list was light, however, there being only 248 travelers aboard in all classes.

A commercial traveler complains that he never gets any orders. He should marry.

LINER VIRGINIA IS NEARLY BUILT

Splendid Progress Being Made in Construction of New Turbo-Electric Vessel in East

Splendid progress is being made in the new turbo-electric liner Virginia, now being built by the Newport News Shipbuilding & Drydock Company for the Panama Pacific Line, according to reports received here from the International Mercantile Marine Company, owners of the line.

The Virginia will be launched August 18 and will take her place in the coast-to-coast service of the Panama Pacific Line in December, sailing from New York on her maiden trip.

The vessel is a sister ship of the California, of the same line, the largest American-built liner and the world's largest electrically-driven commercial vessel, according to its owners.

The main power plant of the new vessel consists of two marine-type General Electric steam turbines directly connected to an alternating current generator. There are two driving motors, one directly connected with each propeller shaft. These motors are supplied with energy generated by the turbine generators.

When the California, the first of three vessels of this type planned by the International Mercantile Marine Company, was launched last October it was regarded as an important event in shipping. Her splendid performance since she was put into service in January has exceeded the expectations of her owners, they report.

GROOTENDYK IS DUE TOMORROW

The Holland-Amerika liner Grootendyk will dock at the Rithet Consolidated piers tomorrow morning from European ports, according to Mr. A. P. Moffat, local agent for the company.

The Grootendyk sailed for this port from San Francisco Tuesday afternoon. She will discharge 150 tons of general cargo here and load 100 tons outward for the United Kingdom.

The time used is Pacific Standard for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight. The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water. Where blanks occur in the tables, the tides rise or fall continuously during two successive tiday periods without turning.

The height is in feet and tenths of a foot, measured from the average level of lower low water.

Esquimalt—To find the depth of water on the sill of the drydock at any time, add thirty feet to the height of high water as given above.

AUGUST LUMBER RATE IS FIXED

INTERCOASTAL TRADE FIGURE OF UNITED STATES IS SET AT $14

Lumber Will Be Moved at Same Rate for Three Consecutive Months—Normal Level

SEATTLE, May 30.—Indicating that the present favorable conditions in the intercoastal lumber trade are expected to carry through at least until the end of August, the rate for that month has been set at $14, at a meeting of the intercoastal lumber conference held at San Francisco. Private messages received yesterday by local headquarters of steamship lines concerned brought the news of this continuation.

The fixing of $14 for August makes the third consecutive month that this rate, which is regarded by steamship lines as the normal, healthy tariff for this trade, has been set by the conference.

June and July, at this figure, is meeting with little or no serious opposition from buyers and, in fact, so heavy have been offerings for June that considerable outside tonnage has been secured to take care of the movement. Tramp tonnage, ordinarily used in other routes, has been diverted into the intercoastal lumber field, a great deal of it being foreign and berthing at British Columbia or North Atlantic United States ports and some from West Coast American ports for delivery in Canada.

Charter rates have been fairly high for this class and some fixtures were made above the conference rate.

Operators are inclined to expect a fair movement of lumber in July, with a considerable curtailment of volume in August. May and June totals are not expected to be reached.

Vancouver Wants Expert to Study Narrows Menace

VANCOUVER, May 30.—Agitation regarding what has been termed the menace to shipping constituted by the Second Narrows, crystallized into definite action today when the various parties interested discussed the situation at a special meeting held in the board room of the Vancouver Harbor Commission's offices.

It was decided that the Federal Government should be asked to appoint an expert to study the situation and to report as to what could be done to ameliorate the present condition.

C.N.S. ARRANGE ALASKA TRIPS

SUMMER SCHEDULE TO NORTH INCLUDES THIRTEEN VOYAGES

Prince Rupert and Prince George to Alternate in Famous Inside Passage Route

The Canadian National Steamships have arranged thirteen return trips to Skagway for the 1928 Summer Alaskan schedule of the company.

The tourist service will be maintained by the two fine passenger steamers Prince Rupert and Prince George, beginning on June 11, with a sailing from Vancouver for the North at 8 p.m. by the latter vessel.

The Rupert will take the next sailing out of Vancouver on June 18 and thereafter the ships will alternate in sailings on June 25, July 2, July 9, July 16, July 23, July 30, August 6, August 13, August 20, August 27 and September 3.

On the northbound trip calls will be made at Prince Rupert, Ketchikan, Taku Glacier, Juneau and Skagway. Southbound the steamers will omit Taku and call at Wrangell. Passengers making the return trip on the same steamer will be given time to make a journey to Lake Bennett and return. About twenty-four hours is given passengers at Skagway before the trip south is commenced.

On the four-day journey, both northbound and southbound the steamer travels in the famous inside passage, one of four in the world. Only for a few hours is she exposed to the swell from the Pacific Ocean at Millbank Sound and at Queen Charlotte Sound. The only four inside passages where ocean liners may steam for miles, sheltered by islands from the open sea are along the Norwegian Coast, the Inland Sea of Japan, along the coast of Chili in South America and the passage to Alaska through the island-dotted water adjoining the coast of British Columbia.

CELEBRATED AT FULFORD HARBOR

Women's Institute Responsible for Success of Holiday Programme on Salt Spring Island

SALT SPRING, May 30. — The Victoria Day celebrations, which took place at Fulford Harbour, were most successfully carried out under the auspices of the Women's Institute. The president, Mrs. Jackson, is to be congratulated most heartily on the result of her efforts. The float, heading the parade from the Institute Hall, which conveyed the May Queen for Salt Spring Island, Miss Gladys Borradaile, with her two maids of honor, Miss Evelyn Jackson and Miss Lorna Rogers, and four attendant flower girls, was driven by Miss Betty Shaw to Swallowfield Farm, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jackson, kindly lent by them for the festivities. This site on the sea proved in every way an ideal spot for the many attractions of the day.

On the arrival of the decorated floats and cars, the queen, dressed entirely in white, as also were those accompanying her on the float, was crowned by Mrs. W. E. Scott, Regent of the Ganges Chapter, I.O.D.E., and presented with a silver and enamel bracelet, the maids of honor receiving brooches. All arrangements for the May Queen contest and decorations of the float, etc., were managed by Mrs. A. J. Eaton and Messrs. Fred and Ray Morris.

The prize-winning decorated car and floats were: 1, the 1st Company Girl Guides, representing a Girl Guides' camp; 2, the Girls' Parish Guild, representing the "Ss. Island Princess." Bradley's and Miss Eleanor Gropp's representation of "Hiawatha's Wigwam." The winner of the best decorated bicycle was Dora Urquhart, and the baby buggy, little Miss Lacy.

Mollett; lucky table, Mrs. Maxwell; fish pond, Mrs. D. Maxwell. Teas, which were served in the grounds and on the beach, were in the hands of Mrs. W. Cearley, Miss Gladys Shaw and several helpers; cocoanut shies, Mr. C. Wakelin. The target shooting competition was managed by Captain Drummond, and won by Mr. Laurie Mouat and Mrs. T. Charlesworth. Musical Recital Is Enjoyed at Sidney

SIDNEY, May 30.—A most enjoyable afternoon musical recital was given by the pupils of Miss Margaret Cochran, at Matthews Hall, on Monday last. The carefully prepared programme proved a delight to the many parents and friends present, and illustrated very clearly the methods of the melody way system of music teaching. Miss Cochran first introduced the system into Sidney in March, and it was especially prepared by W. Otto Meissner, past president of the National Association of Music Supervisors, and follows the class instruction method. All performers showed great advancement since the beginning, and considering that only twelve lessons have been taken, great credit is due both to the efforts of the pupils and to the instruction received. The programme was as follows: Song, "Melody Way"; song, "My Piano," by W. Otto Meissner, 3:45th class; rhythmic games, "Tip Toe" and "Ball Bouncing," by W. Otto Meissner, 4:45th class; solo, "Evening Song," German melody, Gwen Homewood and Eileen McKenzie; "Magic Music," original and transposed, Donald Williamson and Darrell Shade; "To a River," original and transposed, French melody, Garton Lees and Jack Gilman; harmonica selection, primary course, three keys, Gladys Morray; character songs, French melody, both classes; solo, "My Pony," old melody, Dorothy Prince; solo, "Happiness," old melody, Mavis Goddard; rhythmic games, "Bell Ringing" and "Rowing," by W. Otto Meissner, 3:35th class; solo, "Lightly Row," English melody, Coline Cochran; "Sleep, Baby Sleep," German melody, Joy McKillican.

BROWNIE AND GUIDE ASSOCIATION MEETS

Building of New Hall Discussed—Support Coming From Interested Friends

SIDNEY, May 30.—The regular monthly meeting of the Brownie and Guide Association was held in Wesley Hall. There was a good attendance of members present. The president, Mrs. Goddard, occupied the chair and opened the meeting. Various reports were read and adopted. The afternoon was given over to the discussion of the building of a new hall for the holding of meetings of the Brownies and Guides, Scouts and Cubs. The president pointed out the many benefits to be obtained by their being able to have the unrestricted use of their own rooms, where their work might be left undisturbed from meeting to meeting. The committee in charge of raising funds for this purpose reported that considerable support was being extended by interested friends. The children themselves are whole-heartedly entering into the scheme, and are using their individual talents to help raise the necessary funds. A donation of eight dollars was received from the Bachelor Girls, profits of a Leap Year dance recently held by them in Deep Cove, and funds are steadily increasing. It was decided to hold a garden fete and tennis party at Shore Acres, through the kindness of Mr. and Mrs. S. K. Halseth, on July 12, and many suggestions and plans were offered. Miss E. Gwynne very kindly consented to take charge of the tennis tournament, and anyone wishing to play is asked to send his or her entry to her. The hope was expressed that everyone interested would endeavor to keep the date open.

Club at Cumberland Makes Presentation To Departing Member

CUMBERLAND, May 30.—The Linger-Longer Club of Cumberland held a delightful social in the Anglican Hall last night, when a number of members, along with friends to the number of sixty, met and honored one of their members who had just entered into the holy bonds of matrimony and can therefore no longer be a member of this popular club. The member honored was Mr. J. Bennie, who was one of the original members of the club.

The early part of the evening was spent in games and a novel competition held, the winners in the latter being Mrs. W. H. Cope and Mr. D. Lockhart. Refreshments followed the games, after which the president of the club, Mr. William Whyte, addressed the assembled guests. Briefly he outlined the activities of the club during the past year and said that what they had set out to do had been accomplished, namely, the furnishing of a ward in the new wing of the Cumberland General Hospital. Mr. Whyte then told of the real reason of the gathering that evening, the honoring of one of their members, Mr. James Bennie, who was recently married and therefore no longer qualified to be a member of the Linger-Longer Club. Mr. Bennie, said the president, had been a willing worker of the club and a very faithful member—until a couple of weeks ago. On behalf of the club he presented to Mr. and Mrs. Bennie a very handsome casserole, along with the best wishes of all the members of the club.

Mr. Bennie made suitable reply and thanked all for their kind gifts and best wishes.

Mr. J. H. Robertson was also presented with a small memento from the club for the many services he has rendered at all times. Dr. G. Ker McNaughton and Mr. James Dick also addressed the gathering, after which dancing was indulged in to music supplied by two of the club's popular members, Mr. R. H. Robertson, piano, and Mr. Herb Roy, violin.

Prince Edward Branch

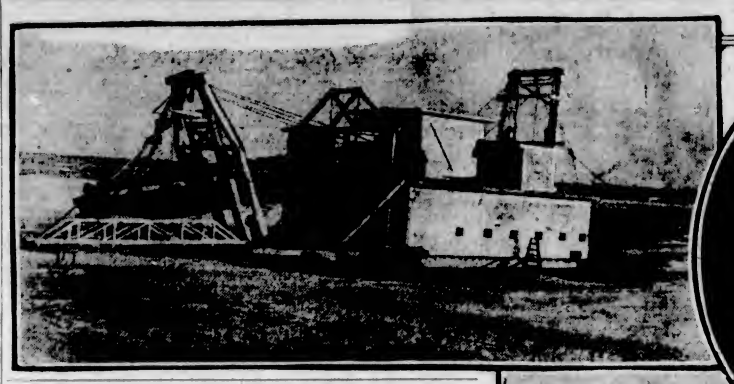

LANGFORD, May 30.—A special meeting of the Prince Edward branch Canadian Legion, No. 91, executive and ways and means committees was held on Monday evening, May 28, at the home of Comrade G. A. Cooney. It was decided to hold a flannel dance on Wednesday evening, June 6, at Langford Lakeside. A good orchestra will be in attendance and the usual Prince Edward treatment will be accorded the patrons so that all may have the full amount of fun and enjoyment.

The usual general meeting of the Prince Edward branch Canadian Legion, No. 91, will be held at the clubrooms at 8:30 p.m., Monday, June 4. All members are requested to attend as there is very important business to be transacted, concerning by-laws, etc., which affect every member.

Courtenay Suffers Damage From Storm

COURTENAY, May 30. — The heavy wind and rainstorm on Monday caused considerable damage in the district. Many telephone connections were interrupted, trees blown down and fences demolished. The precipitation, however, should be of great value to the hay crop and pasturage and to the small fruit growers.

Devoting His Energies to Peace River Development

ONE of the most colorful figures emerging from the Great War is Gen. Frank Sutton, M.C., a sturdy Britisher, who, after contributing valiantly to the cause at Gallipoli, where he lost an arm, became in turn mining prospector in China and eventually soldier of fortune and sponsor of vast development projects in the Orient. After a clash with Soviet authorities in Manchuria, he became chief military adviser to Chang Tso-Lin, the Mukden war lord. Finally, tiring of Chinese warfare, he turned his face across the Pacific, and is now devoting his genius and tireless energy in railroad development in the fertile Peace River region. Above, at the left, is seen a great dredge he constructed at Harbin, in Manchuria, for the controlling Chinese authorities, and below is a picture taken of the general while hunting in Northern China. At the right is a close-up portrait of General Sutton.

ALL READY FOR CHILDREN'S DAY

Sidney Parent-Teacher Association Has Prepared Excellent Programme for Saturday

SIDNEY, May 30.—Arrangements are now almost completed for the Children's Day celebration to be held in the War Memorial Park on Saturday afternoon, under the auspices of the Sidney Parent-Teacher Association, in celebration of the king's birthday. The energetic committee in charge of the affair, has left nothing undone which might add to the general festivity of the event, and has arranged a number of attractions which will appeal alike to children and adults. The parade, which will start the afternoon's programme, will leave Matthews Hall at 2 o'clock, proceeding along Second Street to Sidney Avenue, down Sidney Avenue to Third Street, up Beacon Avenue to Fifth Street, thence to Oakland Avenue and into the park by way of the Oakland Avenue entrance. The following list of entries for the parade is open to everyone, and good prizes are being offered for each item: Best decorated float, best decorated car, best patriotic entry (prize donated by the I.O.D.E.), best decorated bicycle, best advertisement, best sustained character, best comic character, best decorated doll buggy. On entry to the grounds, the queen, Joy McKillican, will be crowned by Mavis Goddard, the former queen, in the presence of her attendants, who have all been selected from the Sidney school.

The remainder of the afternoon will be taken up with sporting events. There will be exhibitions of wrestling, boxing, and tug-of-war, under the supervision of Constable Hadley, for which good prizes are being given. There will also be the popular races, and ball games between the Sidney Pathfinders and the North Saanich School, and baseball in the evening, under the direction of the Sidney Amateur Athletic Association. Refreshment stalls will be on the grounds, where teas, ice cream and candy, hot dogs, etc., will be sold.

SIGN CONTRACT FOR SURFACING STREETS

Nanaimo to Have Nine Miles Treated With Colfix—Work Starts at Once

NANAIMO, May 30.—At an adjourned meeting of the City Council last evening, a contract was signed with the Colfix Pacific Company, Limited, of Vancouver, for the surface treatment of nine miles of graveled streets within the city limits, the treatment to consist of two coats, with a guarantee of two years' wear, the cost to be $1,250 per mile.

Colfix is a comparatively new preparation to be used in this country, although it has been used extensively, and is generally endorsed, by Old Country engineers. Alderman Barsby, chairman of the streets committee, and who is by trade a contractor-builder, has gone into the uses of the new material and its practicability and is satisfied that the claims made by the company's representative, Mr. W. Johnston, who met the council last evening, will be substantiated. It has been used in Vancouver with excellent results. Work here will start almost immediately.

Belgium is planning to commemorate the hundredth anniversary of its independence as a nation by holding in 1930 an international exposition. The event will be held jointly at Brussels, Antwerp and Liege. At Brussels an exhibition of Belgian art from 1830 will be held. At Antwerp the exposition will be devoted to the colonies, shipping, transport as applied to commerce, and Flemish art previous to 1830. The exhibition at Liege will be confined to the iron and steel industries and to the sciences. Committees have been appointed, and active work of interesting prospective exhibitors have been started.

40H NURSERY STOCK, PLANTS, ETC.

HEADQUARTERS FOR RELIABLE NURSERY STOCK
FRUIT AND ORNAMENTAL

WHILE it is now rather late for planting Fruit Trees and Deciduous Ornamentals, this is the best time for the planting of Conifers, such as Cedrus Deodara and Atlanti, English and Irish Yews, Junipers, Cryptomerias, Retinosporas, etc., etc., and all the Broad-leaved Evergreens, such as Rhododendrons and Azaleas, Hollies, Laurels, Veronicas and many others.

These are shipped with a solid ball of soil adhering to the roots, and at this time when they are just starting to grow the root growth is most active, and they take most kindly to new surroundings if looked after when transplanted.

Come out to the Nursery on Winkinson Road and make your own selection from the growing stock. Ask for free catalogue.

Flood in Cemetery

QUEBEC, May 3.—Graves were washed away, coffins laid bare and some of them carried from their last resting place; tombstones were overturned and smashed and other serious damages were caused by a terrific storm which swept over Chandler Monday last, news of which has only been received here today owing to a complete breakdown in telegraph and telephone service caused by the strong winds.

The village cemetery was the greatest sufferer. Small bridges and culverts were carried away and railway tracks in some places were covered with several feet of water, preventing trains from running.

SUPERFLUOUS

In the course of a duel in France the parties discharged their pistols without effect, whereupon one of the seconds proposed that the combatants shake hands. To this the other objected.

"It is quite unnecessary," said he, "their hands have been shaking for half an hour."

ACTION FOR $500 DAMAGES STARTS

Edward and Edna Logan Launch Suit Against Winnifred Blume and Rose Wilson

Seeking $500 damages for alleged acts of trespass, Edward and Edna Clare Logan started suit against Winnifred Agnes Blume and Rose Wilson yesterday in the County Court here before His Honor Judge J. C. McIntosh. Following the formal opening of the case, the trial was adjourned until Wednesday, June 13.

The plaintiffs claim damages for the entry on March 8, 1928, of premises at 451 Walton Street by the defendants, and the seizure by defendants of household furniture and effects. The defendants plead right of entry to recover goods said to be the property of Leo B. Gerard.

Mr. H. W. Davey appeared as counsel for the plaintiffs, while Mr. William C. Moresby represented the defendants.

Montreal Stock Letter

(Supplied by B.C. Bond Corpn., Ltd.)

MONTREAL, May 30.—The absence of inspiration from Wall Street today was reflected in a quieter session in the local market. The market had no definite trend, some public utilities recorded substantial gains while important losses were registered in the paper group. Declines predominated among specialties, although not of large proportions.

Price Bros. suffered the most important loss on the entire list, its closing price of 93 indicating a decline of seven points from last night's level. The floods in Lake St. John and Saguenay district, where Price Bros. are operating, are perhaps responsible for the weakness of the stock. Abitibi opened ¾ firmer at 71, but closed 2¼ down at 68. Port Alfred, after selling up three points to 103, lost all of the gain. On the other hand Frazier improved 1¼ points to 68 and Brompton recovered half to 51½.

Power Corporation closed at 76 today. Brazilian, the leader from the standpoint of activity, touched a high of 58¼ and finished with a net decline of ¾ at 57¼. The feature of strength in the group was Shawinigan. B.E. Steel, first preferred, moved up one point, common eased half to 72. Nickel, from an opening 94¾, finished at 94, thus showing no change. Smelter started one up at 268 and finished two down at 265. Bridge showed a net advance of ¾. Atlantic Sugar on a single transaction, declined 3 points to 16. Massey-Harris improved half to 40½. A light turnover.

B.C. Power Shares Oversubscribed In Old Country

LONDON, May 30.—The allotment of British Columbia Power Corporation shares available for English investors, has been very heavily oversubscribed. Urgent requests for an additional allotment have been refused, as it is felt by the underwriters that Canadian investors were entitled to the fullest possible participation. The B.C. Electric and its subsidiaries, now controlled by B.C. Power Corporation, was well and favorably known by investors here, and a great deal of the demand for the new issue came from the old B.C. Electric shareholders.

New Map of B.C. Mines Ready

Keep Posted
Accurate Information Is the Secret of All Success

FOR the benefit of those who are interested in mining properties in this province we have just published our new map of the Mines of British Columbia.

Our first map had a distribution of 10,000 copies throughout Canada, United States and Great Britain, and its popularity led us to prepare a new and revised edition.

The map is drawn to scale and shows the location of 330 British Columbia mines. A cross-index makes it easy to locate any property instantly. The map will prove indispensable to those following the progress of mining development in this province.

Printed in two colors and accurate in detail, the map is most attractive and is especially suitable for mounting or framing. A copy will be mailed free upon request.

Its Commanding Position Makes Growth Inevitable

WE believe that through the development of the great natural resources of British Columbia, combined with its geographical location, the cities of Vancouver and Victoria and the other communities of the Pacific have a promising future.

Vancouver is already realizing its destiny as the thriving metropolis of the fast developing Pacific Coast of Canada.

The Panama Canal definitely established it in the same key position on the West that Montreal occupies on the East. Through its port, merchandise valued at over two hundred million dollars moved out to the markets of the World during 1926. Imports were handled from forty-four countries. The port revenue showed an increase of 890% over that of six years ago.
